Weaving Flesh and Blood Into Sacred Architecture Mary-Louise Totton,2002 Javanese art is an international art with strong local overtones In lieu of extant texts art historical study of the smallest units of surviving significationornamentationcan provide a wealth of information about artists and patrons It certainly reveals the unique character of this remarkable yet understudied World Heritage site The Day Star - Reading Sacred Architecture ,2008-10 New Expanded Edition Between Concept and Identity Esteban Fernández-Cobián,2014-10-02 The identity of places of worship is one of the most difficult problems faced by religious architecture at the start of this new millennium Contemporary globalising experiences demand peremptorily a reflection both conceptual and situational on the origin of objects people and institutions Nevertheless the chance of these migration flows annihilating already existing religious identities is perceived as a problem This problem is directly linked to the survival of architecture as a system carrying a material representation of the divine and constituting a self reference system for the community of believers Therefore it is important to define the extent to which the new religious architecture has given room to an abstract type of formal experimentation which is disconnected from social reality Does this architecture maintain its bridging sacramental value or on the contrary has it given way to the conceptualist trends still alive in the artistic world Is metaphor a valid concept for the Christian religion Is there an essential aspect linking this architecture to the centuries old tradition of the Catholic Church Different architectural pedagogical exhibition and formal initiatives have arisen in recent years and it is necessary to get to know them with the purpose of understanding where contemporary religious architecture is heading in its eternal search for a permanent identity
