New Perspectives In Archeology:

New Perspectives in Archeology Lewis Roberts Binford,1968    New Perspectives in Archeology Lewis R. Binford,1979    New Perspectives in Archeology Sally R. Binford,Lewis Roberts Binford,1968    New Perspectives on the Origins of Americanist Archaeology David L Browman,Stephen Williams,2002-02-19 In this landmark book experienced scholars take a retrospective look at the developing routes that have brought American archaeologists into the 21st century In 1996 the Society for American Archaeology's Committee on the History of Archaeology established a biennial symposium named after Gordon R Willey one of the fathers of American archaeology to focus on the history of the discipline This volume grew out of the second symposium presented at the 1998 meeting of the Society for American Archaeology Interest in the intellectual history of the field is certainly nothing new the first such volume appeared in 1856 but previously focus has been on individuals and their theories and methods or on various government agencies that supported developed or mandated excavations in North America This volume however focuses on the roots of Americanist archaeology including its pre 1915 European connections and on some of the earliest work by women archaeologists which has been largely overlooked Full of valuable insights for archaeologists and anthropologists both professional and amateur into the history and development of Americanist archaeology New Perspectives will also inspire and serve as a model for future research David Browman is Professor of Anthropology and Chair of the Interdisciplinary Program in Archaeology at Washington University Stephen Williams is Professor Emeritus of Anthropology at Harvard University    New Perspectives on Late Antiquity David Hernández de la Fuente,2011-01-18 Perhaps it is fully justified to think of Late Antiquity 3rd 7th centuries as the first Renaissance of the Classical World This period can be considered a fundamental landmark for the transmission of the Classical Legacy and the transition between the ancient and the medieval individual During Late Antiquity the Classical Education or enkyklios paideia of Hellenism was linked definitively to the Judeo Christian and Germanic elements that have modelled the Western World The present volume combines diverse interests and methodologies with a single purpose unity and diversity as a Neo Platonic motto providing an overall picture of the new means of researching Late Antiquity This collective endeavour stemming from the 2009 1st International Congress on Late Antiquity in Segovia Spain focuses not only on the analysis of new materials and latest findings but rather puts together different perspectives offering a scientific update and a dialogue between several disciplines New Perspectives on Late Antiquity contains two main sections 1 Ancient History and Archaeology and 2 Philosophy and Classical Studies including both overview papers and case studies Among the contributors to this volume are some of the most relevant scholars in their fields including P Brown J Alvar P Barcel C Coder F Fronterotta D Gigli F Lisi and R Sanz    New Perspectives on Household Archaeology Bradley J. Parker,Catherine P. Foster,2012 The essays in this volume represent substantially revised versions of papers presented at the conference Household Archaeology in the Middle East and Beyond Theory Method and Practice This three day meeting took place between February 19 and 21 2009 at Fort Douglas on the campus of The University of Utah in Salt Lake City Thinking from Things Alison Wylie,2002-11-13 No other work in this field covers the history of important conceptual issues in archaeology in such a deep and knowledgeable way bringing both philosophical and archeological sophistication to bear on all of the issues treated Wylie s work in Thinking from Things is original scholarly and creative This book is for anyone who wants to understand contemporary archaeological theory how it came to be as it is its relationship with other disciplines and its prospects for the future Merrilee Salmon author of Philosophy and Archaeology Wylie is a reasonable and astute thinker who lucidly and persuasively makes genuinely constructive criticisms of archaeological thought and practice and very useful suggestions for how to proceed She commands both philosophy and archaeology to an unusual degree Having her articles together in Thinking from Things with much new material extending and integrating them is a major contribution that will be widely welcomed among archaeologists both professionals and students philosophers and historians of science and social scientists George L Cowgill Arizona State University New perspectives in archaeology, ed Sally R. Binford,Lewis Roberts Binford,

New Perspectives in Global Public Archaeology Katsuyuki Okamura,Akira Matsuda,2011-09-03 Since its very beginning archaeology has in many senses always related to a much wider constituency than just archaeologists This relationship between archaeology and the public has often been overlooked and constantly changes Public archaeology as a field of research and practice has been developing since the 1970s in English speaking countries particularly in the United States Britain and Australia and is today beginning to spread to other parts of the world Global expansion of public archaeology comes with the recognition of the need for a careful understanding of local contexts particularly the culture and socio political climate This volume critically examines the current theories and practices of public archaeology through relevant case studies from different regions throughout the world including Japan China South Korea New Caledonia South Africa Senegal Jordon Italy Peru Canada the United Kingdom the United States and Australia These case studies are examined from a wide variety of theoretical contexts to provide a thorough and comprehensive guide to the state of public archaeology today as well as implications for its future As the theory and practice of public archaeology continues to change and grow archaeology s relationship with the broader community needs to be critically and openly examined The contributions in this wide ranging work are a key source of information for anyone practicing or studying archaeology in a public context Models in Archaeology David L. Clarke,2014-10-24 This major study reflects the increasing significance of careful model formation and testing in those academic subjects that are struggling from intuitive and aesthetic obscurantism toward a more disciplined and integrated approach to their fields of study The twenty six original contributions represent the carefully selected work of progressive archaeologists around the world covering the use of models on archaeological material of all kinds and from all periods from Palaeolithic to Medieval Their common theme is archaeological generalisation by means of explicit model building testing modification and reapplication The contributors seek to show that it is the use of certain models in particular ways that defines archaeology as the practice of one discipline with a set of general tenets that are as applicable in Peru as in Persia Australia as Alaska Sweden as Scotland on material from the second millennium B C to the second millennium A D They assert that careful model formulation within archaeology and the cautious exchange and testing of models within and beyond the discipline provides the only route to the formation of the common internationally valid body of theory which defines a vigorous and coherent discipline and distinguishes it from being a collection of merely regionally applicable special cases

Research and Theory in Current Archeology

Charles L. Redman,1973

Archaeology in Environment and Technology David Frankel,Susan Lawrence,Jennifer Webb,2013-05-02 Environments landscapes and ecological systems are often seen as fundamental by archaeologists but how they relate to society is understood in very different ways The chapters in this book take environment culture and technology together All have been the focus of much attention often one or other has been seen as the starting point for analysis but this volume argues that it is the study of the inter relationships between these three factors that offers a way forward. The contributions to this book pick up different strands within the tangled web of intersections between environment technology and society providing a series of case studies which explore facets of this common theme in different settings and circumstances and from different perspectives. As well as addressing themes of theoretical and methodological interest these case studies draw on primary research dealing with time periods from the late Pleistocene glacial maximum to the very recent past and involve societies of very different types. Running through all the contributions however is a concern with the archaeological record and the ways in which scales of observation and availability of evidence affect the development of questions and explanations. The diversity of the chapters in this volume demonstrates the inherent weakness in any attempt to prioritise environment technology or society. These three factors are all embedded in any human activity as change in one will result in change in the others. Social and technical changes alter relations with the environment and indeed the environment itself and as environmental change drives changes in society and technology. As this book shows it is possible to consider the relationship between the three factors from different perspectives but any attempt to consider one or even two in isolation will mean that valuable insights will be missed.
