New Thinking on Higher Education Joel W. Meyerson, 1998 Resources in Education, 1999 The Knowledge Economy and Postsecondary Education National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Center for Education, Committee on the Impact of the Changing Economy on the Education System, 2002-04-11 The Workshop on the Knowledge Economy and Postsecondary Education documents changes seen in the postsecondary education system In her report Lisa Hudson focuses on who is participating in postsecondary education Tom Bailey concentrates on community colleges as the most responsive institutions to employer needs Carol Twigg surveys the ways that four year institutions are attempting to modify their curricular offerings and pedagogy to adapt those that will be more useful and Brian Pusser emphasizes the public's broader interests in higher education and challenges the acceptance of the primacy of job preparation for the individual and of market metaphors as an appropriate descriptor of American higher education An example of a for profit company providing necessary instruction for workers is also examined Richard Murnane Nancy Sharkey and Frank Levy investigate the experience of Cisco high school and community college students need to testify to their information technology skills to earn certificates Finally John Bransford Nancy Vye and Helen Bateman address the ways learning occurs and how these can be encouraged particularly in cyberspace Futures Forum 2000 Maureen E. Devlin, Joel W. Meyerson, 2001-02-09 Sponsored by the Forum for the Future of Higher Education Forum Futures 2000 a report developed from one of higher education's most select annual gatherings features insights and recommendations from some of the best minds in education who are shaping the future of U S colleges and universities a future where the old rules no longer apply The Australian Library Journal, 2002 Market Matters Locke Carter, 2005 Much of the theory underlying technical communication rhetoric composition and college English in general comes from a decidedly socialist Marxist perspective ones that espouses strong anti Capitalist anti competitive statements While members of the academy have learned much about cultural artifacts and practices from these methodologies and critiques they are also disenfranchised from the larger world view free market competitive and capitalistic This volume a collection of 11 scholarly essays begins to fill this gap by asserting a theoretical and practical stance based on free market mechanisms and behaviors Through a variety of approaches from broad argument to specific examples of market behaviors from historical criticism to case studies this collection makes the case that despite fears expressed by numerous critics of capitalism technical communication and rhetoric and composition retain all their force rationale and value when expressed in free market terms Specifically the collection argues that writing disciplines have market value and that Marxist approaches to the fields are not capable of promoting this value It follows then that participants in these fields need to begin viewing themselves as market players instead of reactionaries A second general argument is that markets are inherently rhetorical meaning that they create information are subject to socially constructed trends persuade and communicate values and ideas In other words the market is a natural and logical domain for rhetorical study and participation Finally a third argument is that certain activities distance education foremost among them create value for these academic fields If we see our fields as having market value we do not need to view distance education as a threat to writing disciplines but rather an opportunity for growth and development Locke Carter the editor and lead essayist holds not only a PhD in Rhetoric from the University of Texas at Austin but also an MBA from the University of Texas at Austin
