Technology Transfer in International Business

Tamir Agmon,Mary Ann Young Von Glinow,1991 This is a book on the means by which technological knowledge is transferred from countries that develop it to those that need it but have not yet been able to develop it on their own The focus is on the transfer of technology from Western countries to Asian countries

Strategic Planning in Technology Transfer to Less Developed Countries Christian Madu,1992-01-27

Despite an avalanche of literature over the last 30 years there has been relatively little written on the role played by strategic planning in the transfer of technology particularly from developed to less developed countries Technology transfer which involves the acquisition of inventive activity by secondary users is conceded vital to socio economic growth but usually it is looked at internationally from a micro perspective Unlike other books Madu s volume looks at technology transfer holistically It examines the advantages of technology transfer and its limitations by viewing recipient nations as systems in which social economic behavioral and political influences converge to help shape technological decisions Only when a systems perspective like this is adopted and technology seen as a strategic variable can technology transfer be understood and successfully implemented says Madu Madu thus identifies the failures of technology transfer as the result of malfunctions in three components of the system technology structure and behavior He analyzes these malfunctions offers ways to repair them and considers technology from the viewpoints of both transferrer and receiver whose missions goals and objectives are often not only disparate but sometimes in conflict He then offers what he calls prescriptive frameworks and guidelines to help implement transfer and to see it as a variable that must be integrated into national development planning Throughout Madu makes it clear that the objective of technology transfer is the maximizing of social welfare Using this overarching premise he is able to evaluate both the benefits and the social costs associated with technology transfer and to develop his prescriptive integrative models Intended for specialists in international finance and development and international business management Madu s book will be of special value to teachers of graduate courses in socio economic development public policy and economics and to policymakers throughout government

Organizing Global Technology Flows Pierre-Yves Donzé,Shigehiro Nishimura,2013-11-12 Research on the international transfer of technology in economics and management literature has primarily focused on the role of countries and that of companies in particular multinational enterprises MNEs Similarly economic and business historians have tended to view international technology transfer as a way for economically backward countries to acquire new technologies in order to catch up with more developed economies This volume provides a more in depth understanding of how the international transfer of technologies is organized and in particular challenges the core periphery model that is still dominant in the extant literature By looking beyond national systems of innovation and statistics on foreign trade patent registration and foreign direct investment the book sheds more light on the variety of actors involved in the transfer process including engineers entrepreneurs governments public bodies firms etc and on how they make use of a broad set of national and international institutions facilitating technology transfer Put differently the volume offers a better understanding of the complexity of global technology flows by examining the role and actions of the different actors involved By bringing together a number of original case studies covering many different countries over the period from the late 19th to the 21st century the book demonstrates how technology is being transferred through complex processes involving a variety of actors from several countries using the national and international institutional frameworks

Managing Global Innovation Roman Bouteiller,Oliver Gassmann,Maximilian von Zedtwitz,2013-06-29 Globalization has changed the face of R D Local knowledge clusters are not only tapped by multinationals but increasingly by small and medium sized companies as well Global R D networks speed up the evolution of technology and ask for new management concepts Modern communication technologies create the global village but customers become more fastidious and request their own specific products well localized well tuned into their present business Integrated technology is required to cope with these needs The danger of over engineering has never been as great as today The question is frequently not whether some new features are technically feasible but whether customers are willing to accept and pay for it The first edition of Managing Global Innovation was sold out after few months clearly indicating the search for solutions to these challenges This second edition has been revised for clarity and actuality We have taken care to work in recent research findings as well as updating the case studies where appropriate This book is based on the growing importance of industrial global innovation and the lack of concepts to manage it For this book we conducted 320 interviews in 40 technology based highly internationalized companies including additional interviews in 1998 and 1999 for the second edition Our interview partners were R D managers and research directors from companies in Europe USA and Japan Euro-Asian Management and Business I Brij N. Kumar,2013-06-29 impact in terms of new opportunity and risk In Japan new markets can be in the offering as a result of expected deregulation But on the other hand greater competition in the home countries can become a threat when a host of new fast growing Japanese companies appear on the scene as they break out of oversized and inflexible corporate groups and seek their fortune independently on global markets Six years after Tiananmen China stands today as one of the worlds leading growth nations Because of this and only for this reason it is recognized and to a certain extent even respected by all countries as a partner in commerce and industry Trade ties with the western world are stronger than ever before Japanese trade with China has been booming since 1989 peaking at roughly U S 38 billion in 1993 U S China trade has almost tripled since 1988 to 41 billion in 1993 A similar pattern is seen in China's trade with West Europe which according to Chinese figures amounted to U S 22 billion in 1993 which was 50% above the volume reached in 1992 Although in China actual investment can be way below approved investment the fact remains that some U S 20 billion have been poured into the country since 1991 and another 12 billion were absorbed in 1992 Global Manufacturing Technology Transfer Adedeji B. Anna Visvizi,Orlando Troisi,Vincenzo Corvello,2024-01-01 This book features research presented and discussed during the Research Innovation Forum Rii Forum 2023 As such this book offers a unique insight into emerging topics issues and developments pertinent to the fields of technology innovation and education and their social impact Papers included in this book apply inter and multi disciplinary approaches to query such issues as technology enhanced teaching and learning smart cities information systems cognitive computing and social networking What brings these threads of the discussion together is the question of how advances in computer science which are otherwise largely incomprehensible to researchers from other fields can be effectively translated and capitalized on so as to make them beneficial for society as a whole In this context Rii Forum and Rii Forum proceedings offer an essential venue where diverse stakeholders including academics the think tank sector and decision makers can engage in a meaningful dialogue with a view to improving the applicability of advances in computer science Technology Transfer: From Invention to Innovation A. Inzelt,Jan Hilton,1999-02-28 Technology transfer has expanded rapidly over the past 20 years in Western Europe North America and the Pacific Rim It has been estimated that some 50% of new products and processes will originate outside the primary developer academic and other research institutions are obvious sources of much of this new technology In the NATO Co operating countries however technology transfer is in its infancy it is crucial for wealth creation and improvement in the quality of life that this mechanism is developed The papers selected for inclusion in this book discuss issues related to the development of technology transfer in NATO Co operating countries The book identifies crucial research issues for science and technology policy researchers and as a conclusion offers some policy recommendations The authors are drawn from NATO and Co operating partner countries from other parts of the world and from international organisations The focus of the book is on the institutional framework of knowledge and technology transfer intellectual property rights as sources of information and tools for co operation international national and regional aspects of knowledge and technology dissemination and diffusion and networking Audience Academic institutions research institutes intellectual property practitioners science and technology policy makers technology transfer managers high tech industries Global Technology Transfer John Chumack, 2002 Governments the world over fret continuously about the low level of transfer of technology especially within their own countries The general problem is military to industry although the variations are numerous Problems of presentation offering and support complicate an already byzantine world Yet somewhere within this dilemma lie the seeds of tomorrow s economic uptick Besides the nontrivial problems involved here the reluctance of the people having the technology to share it with someone who can profit from it stands out This book presents the issues and offers a comprehensive bibliography for easy access
