

Managing the Training and Development Function

Purpose

Training and development is potentially a powerful strategic function. It can make a major contribution to organisational, group and individual effectiveness, efficiency, growth and success. It is important that other functional managers accept the training and development specialist as a business partner, whether operations are co-ordinated as a centralised specialist function or are controlled by line managers.

This managerial-level Standard is relevant for those with overall responsibility for the whole range of formal and informal training and development activities within a business, delivering solutions to meet organisational needs. The Standard is appropriate to the functional head of training and development or equivalent, either in an organisation where training is a support function or in one providing specialist training and development services to a range of clients. It applies to:

- a specialist who sees the management of training and development as a career route
- a manager for whom a period managing training and development activities is part of a career path
- a senior practitioner operating as a consultant in a training organisation.

This Standard reflects changing work roles and organisational structures and the context where some responsibility for training and development is devolved to line managers. It emphasises the need to tailor training and development activities to organisational objectives and business needs and includes reference to managing the development of non-employees and outsourced and subcontracted work.

To be effective, the specialist professional manager of training and development operations must be able to establish, manage and evaluate a cost-effective, value-adding function appropriate to the needs of a particular organisation. She/he must ensure a good "fit" between the vision and strategy of training and development and organisational vision and goals. This "fit" is more important than any form of idealised "best practice".

The Standard incorporates many requirements of the NVQ/SVQ Level 4 in Learning and Development and some of the level 5 requirements. It also covers the management of relevant, efficient and cost-effective policies and practices for vocational education and training. To be fully effective, the functional manager in this area probably also needs to meet the Standard in Managing Organisational Learning and Knowledge.

No personnel or development activity exists in a vacuum. So it is inevitable that this Standard reinforces and confirms some of the issues that also appear in the People Management and Development Standard, and the Generalist Learning and Development Standard. Because of its management focus it also relates to some content in the Core Management Standards.

Development,2005 Training Across Multiple Locations Stephen Kreml,R. Wayne Pace,2001-04-13 Provides practical solutions to the business problem of distributing training to multiple locations Introduces a new and practical way to use assessment to create a sustainable training and development function Shows how those involved with training and development can make bottom line contributions to the company Provides a model for calculating return on investment ROI for technology based programs In this era of rapid globalization human resource development professionals in every type of organization face the problem of managing training and development across many different often widely dispersed sites Training Across Multiple Locations offers a comprehensive proven model for designing building and assessing every aspect of a multiple location training and development T D system Stephen Kreml and R Wayne Pace detail how to integrate training from multiple locations into a comprehensive organizational strategy and how corporate training can align those multiple locations with a single corporate vision Training Across Multiple Locations draws from numerous real life examples to show how distance learning technology including intra nets web based training and computer based training is being used to manage multi point training at companies like Motorola Ford Boeing Kinko s Hewlett Packard and others With technology the authors reveal training organizations are able to extend their reach and distribute training over a far wider audience in ways that may make current approaches to training less relevant and even obsolete And perhaps most importantly they provide a model for calculating return on investment ROI for these technology based programs Kreml and Pace present a detailed review process for evaluating the effectiveness of multiple location training and development systems and provide specific advice on how to conduct the review and how to share data to enhance unit effectiveness They also include a unique questionnaire that helps teams assess how well they are carrying out their T D responsibilities and how well they are integrating their activities into the corporate business plan Training and development functions survive by maintaining relationships with critical decision makers at all levels in the organization This process is often described in terms of politics and power but Training Across Multiple Locations treats the issue simply in terms of how to get the job done The unique process described in this book will encourage better preparation and more informed discussions and decisions allowing managers to better anticipate problems and stay on top of key issues Management of Training Programs Frank Anthony De Phillips,1960
