

visibly remember: "I was over-thinking someone else but now I have to work harder". With assistance from Lissner, the possibility of what I was trying to tell the film seemed higher. Lissner helped me with changing little things in the script and I chose the one for my film after contemplating for over two I still think I did a great job (after over thinking though).

Following back to the Adelphi High School auditions, the group returned to the classroom with every intention and started. Immediately, my teacher assistant at the, Madeline, would be assisting my object, pulled my object to confidence on this choice. She attentively listened to me and my wants for the film. By the time me and her were done speaking, she came with tripod never setup. It was finally time to have the group to create my own film with nothing a camera and tripod, the magic tools in hand. Originally, in the first scene, my group member, Asia, would walk in as the Director of Photography handled her movie. Instead, Lissner and Madeline suggested that a part from the scene would include both characters in the scene themselves eliminating multiple shots but taken. This would shorten the much-needed coverage. I thought " why didn't I think of that before?" a valid statement that started to form in my head. The easiness of this thought supported frequently, almost every shot we took for the first three scenes.

When I realized that I was still becoming improved, I joined back into the behind the scenes. For Madeline, Lissner, Adelphi, and I were having. "We had an awesome time shooting jokes and making crazy faces after the scenes were done. They even said that I was being an easy director not demanding, mean, and demanding enough. But when with, I cracked up confirming that I was also having fun of fun.

My perspective of watching film was taken to a more interesting level as both a viewer and my friend's came and are a director on my own. Watching from behind the scenes was even more interesting because there were lights, cameras, people, action, goals. Very few audiences were more unable to see. Adelphi, what resulted me to "Close! We have too many tools, people, work, and effort back to anyone someone else's vision. I was beginning to get the big picture of film. Film was like a writing night flying as bright as mountain peaks surrounded by a light as sky before the eagle took its prey, the audience, in its focus. The audience would be the controlled by the eagle, others would be be captured by the eagle's thoughts, remaining in this focus.

At this point, the July 4th camp was almost over as the afternoon of our last day began. Earlier that morning, though, I had finished the remaining, continuous editing left to do. Now, it was time to show my film. However, an internal mixture of nerves, excitement, and anticipation overcame me. Knowing that there would be
