

The background of the book cover is a classical painting. It depicts two women, likely figures from Greek mythology, shown from the chest up. The woman on the left has long, wavy blonde hair and is wearing a vibrant red dress. The woman on the right has long, wavy reddish-brown hair and is wearing a white dress. They are both looking towards the left. Above them, a large white bird, possibly a swan or a dove, is in flight. The background of the painting is dark and textured.

Mating Norman Rush, 1992-09-01 NATIONAL BOOK AWARD WINNER Is love between equals possible This modern classic is a delightful intellectual love story that explores the deepest canyons of romantic love even as it asks large questions about society geopolitics and the mystery of what men and women really want Luminous Few books evoke the state of love at its apogee The New York Times Book Review The best rendering of erotic politics since D H Lawrence The voice of Rush's narrator is immediate instructive and endearing The New York Review of Books One of The Atlantic's Great American Novels of the Past 100 Years The narrator of this splendidly expansive novel of high intellect and grand passion is an American anthropologist at loose ends in the South African republic of Botswana She has a noble and exacting mind a compelling waist and a busted thesis project She also has a yen for Nelson Denoon a charismatic intellectual who is rumored to have founded a secretive and unorthodox utopian society in a remote corner of the Kalahari one in which he is virtually the only man What ensues is an exhilarating quest and an exuberant comedy of manners A dryly comic love story about grown up people who take the life of the mind seriously Newsweek

Mortal Goods Ephraim Radner, 2024-03-19 This book by one of today's leading theologians examines how Christians might more faithfully and realistically imagine their political vocation Ephraim Radner explains that our Christian calling is to limit our political concerns to the boundaries of our created lives our birth parents siblings families brief persistence in life raising of children relations decline and death He shows that a Christian approach to politics is aimed at tending and protecting these mortal goods and argues for a more constrained view of our mortal life and our political duty than is common in both progressive and conservative Christian perspectives Radner encourages us to take seriously what is most valuable in our lives and allow this to shape our social posture Our vocation is to offer our limited life to God give thanks for it and glorify God by living our lives as a gift Radner also shows how catastrophe reveals our time to be fragile bounded and easily overturned And he exposes betterment which lies behind most modern politics as a false motive for human life The book concludes with a vision of the good life articulated in the form of a letter to his adult children

Mortal Beauty, God's Grace Gerard Manley Hopkins, 2003-12-02 Gerard Manley Hopkins is one of English poetry's most brilliant stylistic innovators and one of the most distinguished poets of any age However during his lifetime he was known not as a poet but as a Jesuit priest and his faith was essential to his work His writings combine an intense feeling for nature with an ecstatic awareness of its divine origins most remarkably expressed in his magnificent and highly original sprung rhythm This collection contains not only all of Hopkins' significant poetry but also selections from his journals sermons and letters all chosen for their spiritual guidance and insight Hopkins didn't allow the publication of most of his poems during his lifetime so his genius was not appreciated until after his death Now more than a hundred years later his words are still a source of inspiration and sheer infectious joy in the radiance of God's creation
