The Most Offending Soul Alive Judith M. Heimann, 1999-11-01 An English eccentric and adventurer Tom Harrisson 1911-1976 sought knowledge and renown in a dizzying number of fields while breaking most of the rules of civilized society He was a precursor in the field of modern market research he won the DSO for his World War II service in Borneo he led efforts to save the orangutan the green sea turtle and other endangered species he discovered the oldest modern human skull known at the time This hugely enjoyable story of Harrisson's extravagant controversial life offers a sympathetic and insightful look at a charismatic figure who offended as many people as he impressed at the twilight of colonialism on the fringes of the British empire

Strange Harvests Edward Posnett, 2020-08-04 An original and magical map of our world and its riches formed of the stories of the small scale harvests of seven natural objects In this beguiling book Edward Posnett journeys to some of the most far flung locales on the planet to bring us seven wonders of the natural world eiderdown edible birds nests civet coffee sea silk vicuña fiber vegetable ivory and guano that promise ways of using nature without damaging it To the rest of the world these materials are mere commodities but to their harvesters they are imbued with myth tradition folklore and ritual and form part of a shared identity and history Strange Harvests follows the journeys of these uncommon products from some of the most remote areas of the world to its most populated urban centers drawing on the voices of the people and little known communities who harvest process and trade them Blending history travel writing and interviews Posnett sets these human stories against our changing economic and ecological landscape What do they tell us about capitalism global market forces and overharvesting How do local microeconomies survive in a hyperconnected world Is it possible for us to live together with different species Strange Harvests makes us see the world with wonder curiosity and new concern

Military Anthropology Montgomery McFate, 2018-05-01 A candid reassessment of the role of anthropologists in mediating encounters between Western armies and non Western peoples

Writing, Travel and Empire Peter Hulme, Russell McDougall, 2007-08-29 The British Empire drew on the talents of many remarkable figures whose lives reveal a wonderfully rich involvement with the crucial issues of the period In many cases they left a legacy of travel writing novels biography and ethnography which made important contributions to our knowledge of other cultures Writing Travel and Empire explores the lives and writings of eight such figures including Sir George Grey Gertrude Bell Sir Hugh Clifford and Roger Casement All travelled the Empire from Grey the renowned colonial governor who undertook dangerous journeys to the interior of Australia to Tom Harrisson the emaciated polymath war hero and Arctic explorer whose time in the New Hebrides embraced both cannibalistic rituals and a meeting with film legend Douglas Fairbanks Sr who sought Harrisson out for a Hollywood feature about savage life All saw themselves as writers despite their very different approaches and interests and each was writing against a backdrop of the impending disappearance of indigenous cultures around the world Writing from the margins of what was shortly to become the more formalised discipline of anthropology their work yields interesting insights into both the issues of empire and the ways in which academic disciplines define the boundaries of their subject Embracing themes such as gender and travel racial science the globalisation of native management and the internal colonies and with a geographical coverage that extends from South America to Russia via Africa and the South Seas Writing Travel and Empire will engage all those with an interest in cultural geography anthropology history postcolonial studies biography and travel writing The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2003 We Europeans? Antony Robin Jeremy Kushner, 2004 Drawing upon historical literary cultural and anthropological approaches this book examines the sources of cultural identity in Britain in the twentieth century and how these were shaped through the influences of family education and everyday high and low culture The examination focuses on the archives of the British social anthropological organization Mass Observation and is the first detailed history of it to be published Founded in the 1930s by poets psychoanalysts surrealists and sociologists among others the purpose of the organization was to create an anthropology of the British people by the natives themselves through the use of diaries directives and special surveys Tales from the Thébaïde Peter Charles Howard Pritchard, 2007 Dr Peter Pritchard Oxford scholar conservationist world traveler and Renaissance man is a multifaceted expert on turtles and tortoises A cheloniological thread thus runs through his Tales from the Thebaide as he expands the study of his favorite animals into commentaries upon the universe itself and includes brilliant erudite and always humorous accounts of his adventures in many lands seeking further insight into the shelled reptiles His preoccupation that important players in his life and in his field should not be forgotten led to inclusion of several in depth obituaries including one of Florida's own Archie Carr major section of the book as does his scholarly discourses on the taxonomic status of sea turtles There is a long section on why he set up his personal Thebaide the Chelonian Research Institute and his delight in the zany sometimes unbelievable players of the past who launched their own Cabinets of Curiosities Pritchard's reflections encompass his love of life and his hope that his readers will share his delight in people science culture conservation argument scholarship and of course turtles Berita, 2000 Annual Bibliography of British and Irish History, 2002 New Scientist, 2002 American Journal of Public Health, 2008 Journal of the Malaysian Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, 2000 History Today, 2003 Tribune for Victory and Socialism, 2002 Malaysian Naturalist, 1997 Foreign Service Journal, 2007 Beyond the Green Myth Peter G. Sercombe, Bernard Sellato, 2007 Borneo with its tales of White Rajahs and tribes of headhunters has long excited the Western imagination Today however there is another green imagination at work Mention of the island is more likely to evoke images of tropical deforestation and concern about the cruel dispossession and displacement of indigenous peoples who once lived in relative harmony with their environment It is perhaps not suprising then that most books dealing with the nomadic hunter gatherers of Borneo have principally been pictorial studies There is indeed a dearth of scholarship regarding these peoples a situation that this first ever comprehensive review of nomadic groups in the Borneo rain forest aims to rectify Presenting a wealth of new research contributed by an international team of scholars the volume covers all of those parts of Borneo where nomads called Penan Punan or by various other names are or were known to exist and provides a comparative historical ecological study of these groups The study is primarily concerned with issues of modernization including the monetary economy formalized institutions centralized power structures contractual relationships and extraction activities and development policies The impact of these policies is analyzed with special regard to the natural environment inhabited by these small scale societies as well as the use of its resources The book has no stiff theoretical orientation but informs ongoing debates about changing forms of ethnicity relations between minorities and the state minorities rights and survival native discourse the sustainability of tropical forest use and the neo romantic environmentalist myth of so called wise traditional peoples
