Mother Gave A Shout:

Mother Gave a Shout Morag Styles, Susanna Steele, 1990 Resisting Asian American Invisibility Stacey J. Lee, 2022

Resisting Asian American Invisibility highlights one group's struggle for educational justice. Based on in-depth ethnographic research in formal and informal educational spaces, this book argues that Hmong American youth are rendered invisible by dominant racial discourses and current educational policies and practices. The book illustrates the way that Hmong American students are erased by the Black and White racial paradigm and the Asian American pan-ethnic category that perpetuates the model minority stereotype. Furthermore, Lee and a team of Southeast Asian American graduate student researchers explore how current educational policies around English learners marginalize Hmong youth. Far from being passive or silent victims, Hmong American communities actively resist their invisibility through various forms of educational advocacy and community-based education. In the tradition of critical ethnography, the author and her research team also look at what these individual and local stories expose about larger social forces, norms, and institutions. Book Features: Focuses on a Southeast Asian American group that has gotten little attention in education literature. Highlights the unique histories and educational experiences, concerns, and challenges facing Hmong American students in a Midwest city. Examines both school and community-based educational spaces. Draws on research conducted as a follow-up study to the author's book Up Against Whiteness: Race, School, and Immigrant Youth.

Provided are summaries of conference presentations discussing aspects of birth, parent-child interaction, and attachment behavior. Material in part I explores perspectives on pregnancy and the perinatal period. Included are discussions of birth in nonindustrial societies, progress in the study of maternal behavior in animals, the physiological effects of a supportive companion during labor, and the milieu and obstetrical positions during labor. In part II, summaries concern infants and mothers' contributions to attachment. Topics discussed are early caregiving and later patterns of attachment, the transmission of affect between mothers and infants, studies of parent-infant bonding, maternal stress following the birth of a second child, the father's role in family development, and the father-child relationship. Part III focuses on the development of relationships in high-risk situations. Specific attention is given to the uses of behavioral assessment of premature infants in the context of intervention, findings of an anthropological study of a special care nursery, the impact of medical complications on parental behavior in the premature nursery, family-oriented intervention with failure to thrive infants, support for hospital caregivers and staff burnout in the neonatal intensive care unit. Applications of recent research findings to clinical care are discussed in part IV. RH The National Magazine, 1905 The Magic of Malgudi R. K. Narayan, 2000
