explores questions about how to study urban lives and examines experiences of urban inhabitants in cities across the globe. Authors ask questions such as how can one study the activities in a huge fish market in Tokyo? How do elderly residents benefit from urban agriculture in New York City? How do people maneuver ever-present traffic jams in Istanbul? How do low-income residents in Cairo manage their lives drawing on neighborhood social networks? How do immigrants fight for green spaces in Paris? How do families manage transnational ties between New York City and Ecuador? The book is organized into six parts: Urban Fieldwork; Communities; Urban Structure; Inequality and Survival; Immigrants, Migrants and Refugees; Changing Cities and Current Topics in Urban Anthropology. The last part addresses issues at the forefront of anthropological research and broader political debates like environmental justice, disability and accessibility, and access to water supplies. Each part includes an introduction and each chapter is preceded by notes about its context and relevance. The rich ethnographic content of the chapters makes them highly accessible to students while addressing relevant topics and themes.

Boundary Layer Flow over Elastic Surfaces Viktor V. Babenko, Ho-Hwan Chun, Inwon Lee, 2012-09-29. While other methods of drag reduction are well known in marine R & D and ship design environments, worldwide compliant coating drag reduction remains less well known and poorly understood. This important book presents cutting-edge techniques and findings from research sources not generally accessible by Western researchers and engineers, aiding the application and further development of this potentially important technology. Beginning with an introduction to drag reduction that places the authors' work on elastic surfaces and combined techniques in context, the book moves on to provide a comprehensive study of drag reduction through elastic coating with both flow and material properties considered. Coverage includes: Experimental findings around coherent vortical structures (CVS) in turbulent boundary layers and methods of controlling them; Static and dynamic mechanical characteristics of elastic composite coatings as well as new techniques and devices developed for their measurement; Combined methods of flow control and drag reduction including the effect of injection of polymer solutions; Elastic coatings and generated longitudinal vortical structures on hydrodynamic resistance. Intended as a reference for senior engineers and researchers concerned with the drag reduction and the dynamics of turbulent boundary layer flows, Boundary Layer Flow over Elastic Surfaces provides a unique source of information on compliant surface drag reduction and the experimental techniques around it that have shown measurable and repeatable improvements over recent years. This compilation of research findings and new techniques developed for measurement will aid R & D engineers, naval architects, and senior designers in their quest to achieve drag reductions that will deliver significant efficiency savings. Unique source of information on compliant surface drag reduction, an important area of technology with practical application to ships from otherwise inaccessible research studies. Updates the knowledge base on boundary layer flow and surface friction reduction, critical topics in the global quest for increased ship efficiency and fuel economy. Reveals new techniques and devices developed for measurement and provides a comprehensive study of drag reduction through elastic coating with both flow and
