Open Borders The Case Against Immigration Controls:

Open Borders - Second Edition Teresa Hayter, 2004-06-20 In this new edition of Open Borders Teresa Hayter assesses the impact of the increasing severity of border controls since they were first introduced and makes the controversial case for their abolition Hayter focuses on postwar immigration controls especially the use of such controls against the peoples of former European colonies and East Europeans and their effects on asylum seekers She examines the recent history of European coordination of border controls and the notion of Fortress Europe Hayter argues that the existence of controls leads to great suffering and abuse of human rights and that immigration controls are racist and help legitimate racism She demonstrates that immigration controls have actually had a limited impact on controlling numbers To illustrate her arguments she draws on empirical material especially from Britain in the 1980s and 1990s relating in particular to the use of detention arbitrary decision making and the denial of benefits She compares British government policies with policies elsewhere in Europe and calls for the free movement of people and the abolition of border controls The new edition brings this seminal work up to date with a lengthy preface exploring how the practices of the British government over the past few years has continued the process Hayter outlines in the main text of abusive and irrational border controls and the criminalisation of entire communities This second edition also updates the bibliography and list of campaigning groups and ends with a new manifesto for a world without borders declaring no one is illegal

Migration Borders Freedom Harald Bauder, 2016-09-01 International borders have become deadly barriers of a proportion rivaled only by war or natural disaster Yet despite the damage created by borders most people can't or don't want to imagine a world without them. What alternatives do we have to prevent the deadly results of contemporary borders? In today's world, national citizenship determines a person's ability to migrate across borders. Migration Borders Freedom questions that premise. Recognizing the magnitude of deaths occurring at contemporary borders worldwide, the book problematizes the concept of the border and develops arguments for open borders and a world without borders. It explores alternative possibilities ranging from the practical to the utopian that link migration with ideas of community, citizenship, and belonging. The author calls into question the conventional political imagination that assumes migration and citizenship to be responsibilities of nation states rather than cities. While the book draws on the theoretical work of thinkers such as Ernst Bloch, David Harvey, and Henry Lefebvre, it also presents international empirical examples of policies and practices on migration and claims of belonging. In this way, the book equips the reader with the practical and conceptual tools for political action, activist practice, and scholarly engagement to achieve greater justice for people who are on the move. Borders, Mobility and Technologies of Control Sharon Pickering, Leanne Weber, 2006-09-08. Territorial borders are taking on a new significance; the implications of which are relatively unexplored within the discipline of criminology. This book presents the first systematic attempt to develop a critical criminology of the border and offers a unique treatment of the impact of globalisation and mobility. It focuses on borders and the significance of the activities which take place on and around them. For many, the border is an everyday reality, a space in which to live, a land necessary to cross. For states, the border space increasingly requires protection and defence; it is at the centre of state ideology and performance; it is the site for investing significant political and material resources and is ultimately ungovernable. Providing a wealth of case material from Australia, Europe, and North America, it is for students, academics, and practitioners working in the areas of criminology, migration, human geography, international law, and politics. Globalisation, sociology, and cultural anthropology. Borders, Mobility and Technologies of Control provides a model of criminological inquiry that is global in scope, constructionist in vision, and capable of combining the insights of dialogic and political economic analyses into a holistic understanding of the growing conflict between nation states and multitudes. This book is an important new step forward for all those who approach criminology not as an adjunct to state control but as sociological inquiry in pursuit of human justice. Dr Raymond Michalowski, Arizona Regents Professor, Northern Arizona University, USA. Borders, mobility and technologies of control is a radical exploration of new terrain in transnational and comparative criminology. Crossing disciplinary boundaries, this collection charts new forms of transgression and control in the borderlands, raising new theoretical questions and topics for research. Ben Bowling, Professor of Criminology, Criminal Justice, King's College London.

Border Deaths at Sea under the Right to Life in the European Convention on Human Rights Lisa-Marie Komp, 2022-11-17. This book focuses on border deaths at sea. It unravels how the interplay of the law of the sea and rules on jurisdiction widen the opportunity for states to make and enforce rules outside their territory and questions whether this is also accompanied with an obligation to respect the right to life under the European Convention on Human Rights ECHR when doing so By embarking upon the challenge of analysing a cross border phenomenon in which direct encounters between state agents and the victims are few through the lens of legal obligations the book unearths avenues for arguing that the ECHR is applicable to border deaths on the high seas and showcases the Court s creativity in bridging the gap between the Convention and people in need of protection Furthermore it demonstrates that the ECHR is applicable to border deaths occurring within the territorial seas of states It discusses the right to life as well as the specific obligations of states in respect to border deaths at sea and demonstrates that in many instances EU policies fall short of the standards set under the right to life This book will be of key interest to scholars students and practitioners in migrant rights international human rights law public international law including refugee and migration law maritime law and security studies

The Cultures of Economic Migration Tope Omoniyi, 2016-03-16 This volume explores the processes of economic migration the social conditions that follow it and the discourses that underlie research into it Reflecting critically on economic migration and on the process of studying and creating knowledge about it the contributors address the question of whether recent enquiries into modernity bring a newer and better comprehension of the nature of dislocation and movement or whether these serve simply to replicate familiar modes of placing people and individuals The book is organized into perspectives in and on specific continents Europe Asia and Africa in order to explore notions regarding economic migration within and across regions as well as towards displacing the Eurocentrism of many studies of migration

Race, Racism and Social Work Michael Lavalette, Laura Penketh, 2013-12-30 Without a doubt structural and institutionalised racism is still present in Britain and Europe a factor that social work education and training has been slow to acknowledge In this timely new book Lavalette and Penketh reveal that racism towards Britain s minority ethnic groups has undergone a process of change They affirm the importance of social work to address issues of race and racism in education and training by presenting a critical review of a this demanding aspect of social work practice Original in its approach and with diverse perspectives from key practitioners in the field the authors examine contemporary anti racism including racism towards Eastern European migrants Roma people and asylum seekers It also considers the implications of contemporary racism for current practice This is essential reading for anyone academically or professionally interested in social work and the developments in this field of study post 9 11

The Legitimacy of The European Union through Legal Rationality Richard Ball, 2013-10-15 Third country nationals TCNs play an important part in the economy of the European Union reflected in the rights granted to them under European Union Law Political expediency is however shaped by world regional and domestic influences that in turn determine policy towards third country nationals and their legal rights to freedom of movement This book examines the concept of political legitimacy within the European Union through the principles of legal rationality focusing in particular on the European Union's policy towards third country nationals Richard Ball argues that for legal doctrine to be rational it must display the requirements of formal instrumental and substantive rationality each mutually exclusive and essential In taking this position of legal rationality the book focuses on free movement rights of TCNs within EU treaties and implementing legislation the Area of Freedom Security and Justice and Association Agreements Ball concludes that the stance of European Union Law towards third country nationals lacks legitimacy and suggests possible new directions that EU policy should take in the future Open Borders Teresa Hayter, 2000 A critical assessment of border controls in twentieth century Europe that puts forward the case for their abolition

The International Migration Review, 2003 The Exclusionary Politics of Asylum V. Squire, 2009-04-28 The issue of asylum has become the focus of intense debate over recent years much of which is organized around questions regarding how far and in what ways increasing numbers of asylum seekers pose a problem or a threat to host states This book steps back from this debate in order to consider how why and with what effects such questions have come to take such a hold in UK and EU contexts Critiquing the securitisation and criminalisation of asylum seeking it analyses recent policy developments in relation to their wider historical political and European contexts and argues that the UK response effectively produces asylum seekers as scapegoats for dislocations that are caused by the shifting boundaries of the nation state Any move beyond such an exclusionary politics it claims requires a distinctly political re thinking of asylum as well as of citizenship more widely Book cover Traffick Gargi Bhattacharyya, 2005-06-20 Shows how the illegal economy drugs and people trafficking is essential to global markets Migration, Belonging and the Nation State Alperhan Babacan, Supriya Singh, 2010 The book questions how modern migration and globalisation have impacted upon notions of belonging and identity within nation states across the world This book provides theoretical and empirical accounts of the relationship between identity rights nationalism race and ethnicity The authors cover the complexity of the topic as identification has become much more multifaceted The authors cover difficult and cutting edge issues relating to citizenship nation formation identity remittances transnational families migration and asylum in the context of Australia Malaysia Pakistan and Sri Lanka These critical issues inform and shape key policy and program responses of many governments and are subject of topic in international relations forums between nation states The European Union Steven P. McGiffen, 2001-09-20 Second volume of Deutscher prize winning trilogy on the future of IR tracing the defining characteristics of foreign encounters over time Native Sons Gregory Mann, 2006-07-19 For much of the twentieth century France recruited colonial subjects from sub Saharan Africa to serve in its military sending West African soldiers to fight its battles in Europe Southeast Asia and North Africa In this exemplary contribution to the new imperial history Gregory Mann argues that this shared military experience between France and Africa was fundamental not only to their colonial relationship but also to the reconfiguration of that relationship in the postcolonial era Mann explains that in the early twenty first century among Africans in France and Africa and particularly in Mali where Mann conducted his research the belief that France has not adequately recognized and compensated the African veterans of its wars is widely held and frequently invoked It continues to animate the political relationship between France and Africa especially debates about African immigration to France Focusing on the period between World War I and 1968 Mann draws on archival research and extensive interviews with surviving Malian veterans of French wars to explore the experiences of the African soldiers He describes the effects their long absences and infrequent homecomings had on these men and their communities he considers the veterans status within contemporary Malian society and he examines their efforts to claim recognition and pensions from France Mann contends that Mali is as much a postslavery society as it is a postcolonial one and that specific ideas about reciprocity mutual obligation and uneven exchange that had developed during the era of slavery remain influential today informing Malians conviction that France owes them a blood debt for the military service of African soldiers in French wars

Media and Ethnic Minorities Valerie Alia, Simone Bull, 2005 A study of media and minorities both the representations of minorities by dominant society outsiders and indigenous self representation and media creation in film television radio print and new media

Art in the Age of Terrorism Graham Coulter-Smith, Maurice Owen, 2005 Art in the Age of Terrorism tackles one of the most difficult topics imaginable a war that is quintessentially postmodern in its decentred identity globalized character and confused conflict of cultures In this publication both artists and critics explore in a series of essays the various ways in which art can help articulate the zone of grey that lies behind the black and white term terrorism A significant number of the texts deal with the theme of the unspeakable from a number of perspectives An international plurality of voices is offered in this book addressing key works by artists from New York Northern Ireland South Africa Lebanon and Israel many of them profoundly moving and poignant A number of contributors address the problems facing refugees from terror in the post 9 11 era exploring the cruel logic by which the contemporary refugee from terror is often perceived as a terrorist and treated accordingly
