Ladislav Šíp

Opera In Czechoslovakia:

Czech Opera John Tyrrell, 1988 Opera is the grandest and most potent cultural expression of the nationalist movement which led to the establishment of the Czechoslovak Republic in 1918. During this period Czech opera developed into a genre of major artistic importance cultivated by composers of the stature of Smetana, Dvorák, and Janáček. Czech Opera examines opera in its national contexts and is a study not only of operas written in Czech but also of the specific circumstances which shaped them. These include the historical and political background to the period, the theatres in which Czech plays and operas were first performed and the composers and performers who worked in them. The role of the librettists is given particular prominence and is complemented by a detailed chapter on the subject matter of the librettos, shedding light on the subject matter of the historical and mythic background of the genre. Opera in Czechoslovakia Ladislav Šíp, 1955

Opera and Ideology in Prague Brian S. Locke, 2006 An overview of the history of the Prague musical community from 1900 until the end of democracy in 1938 with attention to polemics about Czechness and modernism. This study presents a history and analysis of the Prague musical community from 1900 until the end of democracy in 1938. Opera and Ideology in Prague not only narrates the fascinating history of a local musical community but also reveals much about music and culture in Europe. The fin de siècle period was dominated by the musicologist Zdenek Nejedly's polemics regarding the competing legacies of Smetana and Dvorák and the merits of modernism. After Czech independence in 1918 a new generation of musicians accepted modernist foreign influences only with extreme hesitation. The 1926 Prague premiere of Berg's opera Wozzeck and the ascendancy of a young group of avant garde composers changed the cultural climate entirely, providing new ground for the exploration of jazz, neo classicism, quarter tones, and socialist music. As the Czechoslovak Republic drew to a close, a resurgence of nationalism appeared in the musical expressions of both Czechs and German Bohemians. The analyses of operas and tone poems by Novák, Ostrcil, Zík, Jeremias, Haba, Kricka, and Suk provide a cross section of musical life in early twentieth century Prague as well as a series of interpretations of Czech cultural identity. Populist endeavors such as jazz and neo classicism represented some of the ways in which composers of the 1930s attempted to regain an audience alienated by modernism. In this respect, the trends in Prague mirrored those of the rest of Europe. Brian Locke is Assistant Professor of Music History at Western Illinois University, Macomb. He has written extensively on twentieth century music, including Czech operatic and symphonic works and Alban Berg's Wozzeck. Opera in Czechoslovakia Ladislav Sip, 1955

Political Dreams and Musical Themes in the 1848-1922 Formation of Czechoslovakia James W. Peterson, William J. Peterson, 2023-10-24 Political Dreams and Musical Themes in the 1848-1922 Formation of Czechoslovakia. Interaction of National and Global Forces characterizes the 1918-22 formation of Czechoslovakia as a consequence of political and musical expressions. Nationalist expressions and formations were striking after the 1848 Revolution. The authors explore how the music of Smetana, Janáček, and Dvorák inspired people with reminders about the important achievements of past Bohemian leaders Under the control of the Vienna based Habsburg Empire Czech leaders also achieved more political representation in both Habsburg and Bohemian legislatures and Slovaks made some national progress in at least asserting their demands to Budapest and its controlling Magyar Empire During the early twentieth century there was additional pressure to link up these nationalist movements in both music and politics with regional modernist approaches that were increasingly popular in other parts of Europe The outbreak of World War I in 1914 opened up opportunities such as joint participation in the Czechoslovak Legion for the two key ethnic groups to forge a Czechoslovak state Independence took place with considerable western support on October 28 1918 and the commemorative concert two days later of compositions by Josef Suk put the final stamp on a considerable achievement that bore the hallmarks of globalism as well as nationalism
