The Letters Saint Basil the Great, Aeterna Press, 2015-06-22 THE Letters of St Basil fittingly continue the series of Patristic writings in the Loeb Classical Library which has already published some of the works of Clement of Alexandria St Augustine and the Apostolic Fathers Apart from their historical significance these Letters are interesting as expressions of a striking personality There is so much in the man himself and so rich a variety in his experience that even in an age remarkable for men of force and character he is an outstanding figure Withdrawn for a time from contact with worldly affairs he is again in the very midst of them as bishop and theologian With a vigilant eye to the spiritual needs of his own diocese he is none the less deeply concerned for the preservation of the Faith against the attack open or insidious of Arianism Here and there in the Letters he gives us descriptions that are exquisite Occasionally in extolling the beauty of Christian virtue he becomes eloquent And when duty compels him to upbraid those in high places episcopal or imperial he is outspoken and fearless
