Reforming Education and Challenging Inequalities in Southern

Contexts Pauline Rose,Madeleine Arnot,Roger Jeffery,Nidhi Singal,2021-03-24 This book offers in depth analyses of how education interacts with social inequality in Southern contexts Drawing on a range of disciplinary frameworks it presents

new analyses of existing knowledge and new empirical data which define the challenges and possibilities of successful educational reform. It is a tribute to the work of the late Christopher Colclough who as a leading figure in education and international development played a key role in the global fight for education for all children. The book critically engages with international evidence of educational access, retention and outcomes offering new understandings of how social inequalities currently facilitate, mediate or restrict educational opportunities. It exposes the continuing influence of wealth and regional inequalities and caste and gendered social structures. Researchers in Ethiopia, Ghana, India, Pakistan and Uganda highlight how the aspirations of families living in poverty remain unfilled by poor quality education and low economic opportunities and how schools and teachers currently address issues of gender, disability and diversity. The book highlights a range of new priorities for research and identifies some necessary strategies for education reform, policy approaches and school practice if educational equality for all children is to be achieved. The book will be of great interest to researchers, scholars, educational practitioners and policy makers in the fields of economics, politics and sociology of education, international education, poverty research and international development. Foreword, Chapters 1, 6 and 12 and a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 license. Chapter 7 – Poverty and Inequality in Middle Income Countries Einar Braathen, Julian May, Marianne Ulriksen, Gemma C. Wright, 2016-04-15. This collection offers a timely reassessment of viable ways of addressing poverty across the globe today. The profile of global poverty has changed dramatically over the past decade and around three quarters of the poor now live in middle income countries, making inequality a major issue. This requires us to fundamentally rethink anti poverty strategies and policies as many aspects of the established framework for poverty reduction are no longer effective. Featuring contributions from Latin America, Africa and Asia, this much needed collection answers some of the key questions arising as development policy confronts the challenges of poverty and inequality on the global, national and local scale in both urban and rural contexts. Providing poverty researchers and practitioners with valuable new tools to address new forms of poverty in the right way, Poverty and Inequality in Middle Income Countries shows how a radical switch from aid to redistribution based social policies is needed to combat new forms of global poverty. – Eliminating Human Poverty Santosh Mehrotra, Enrique Delamonica, 2013-07-04. This book focuses on the provision of basic social services in particular access to education, health and water supplies as the central building blocks of any human development strategy. The authors concentrate on how these basic social services can be financed and delivered more effectively to achieve the internationally agreed Millennium Development Goals. Their analysis, which departs from the dominant macro economic paradigm, deploys the results of broad ranging research they led at UNICEF and UNDP investigating the record on basic social services of some 30 developing countries. In seeking to learn from these new data they develop an analytical argument around two potential synergies at the macro level between poverty reduction human development and economic growth and at the micro level between interventions to provide basic social services Policymakers they argue can integrate macro economic and social policy Fiscal monetary and other macro economic policies can be compatible with social sector requirements They make the case that policymakers have more flexibility than is usually presented by orthodox writers and international financial institutions and that if policymakers engaged in alternative macro economic and growth oriented policies this could lead to the expansion of human capabilities and the fulfillment of human rights This book explores some of these policy options The book also argues that more than just additional aid is needed Specific strategic shifts in the areas of aid policy decentralized governance health and education policy and the private public mix in service provision are a prerequisite to achieve the goals of human development The combination of governance reforms and fiscal and macro economic policies outlined in this book can eliminate human poverty in the span of a generation

Linking Education Policy to Labor Market Outcomes

Tazeen Fasih,2008 Education plays a central role in preparing individuals to enter the labor force as well as equipping them with the skills to engage in lifelong learning experiences The objective of this study is to review what is known about the role of education in improving labor market outcomes with a particular focus on policy considerations for developing countries The report presents findings from current literature on the topic which offers new ways of looking at the returns to education together with evidence from four original data analysis and background studies of education and labor issues in Ghana and Pakistan Country studies on Ghana and Pakistan are used to substantiate findings of the literature and illustrate the heterogeneity of education labor market linkages across regions These countries were chosen because they are representative of two of the poorest regions of the world and because their inclusion in the analysis complements ongoing World Bank work on education and labor market issues in those countries This report offers two types of findings those relevant to the content of educational policies and those relevant to the framework for educational policy making
