Marriage in Maradi Barbara MacGowan Cooper, 1997 Women's contradictory contributions to social and economic change in the twentieth century can be seen in their improvisations upon the seemingly fixed traditions surrounding marriage in Maradi Cooper finds that women in Maradi have simultaneously advanced their individual interests and undermined protections to women as a whole by redefining the role of wife in agriculture by adopting seclusion in order to find leisure time for trade by emphasizing hierarchy among wives unmarried women and girls and by transforming the material component in marriage exchange With the growth of international trade state employment and Islamic norms competing ideals for marriage and the role of women have emerged The French colonial administration the independent government of Niger and individual men have all attempted to redefine local practices in an effort to control women Both men and women in the region are manipulating negotiating and reinterpreting marriage wedding exchange and nonmarriage in response to options created by a shifting political economy

Marriage, Law and Modernity Julia Moses, 2017-11-16 Marriage Law and Modernity offers a global perspective on the modern history of marriage Widespread recent debate has focused on the changing nature of families characterized by both the rise of unmarried cohabitation and the legalization of same sex marriage However historical understanding of these developments remains limited How has marriage come to be the target of national legislation Are recent policies on same sex marriage part of a broader transformation And has marriage come to be similar across the globe despite claims about national cultural and religious difference This collection brings together scholars from across the world in order to offer a global perspective on the history of marriage It unites legal political and social history and seeks to draw out commonalities and differences by exploring connections through empire international law and international migration

Militarizing Marriage Sarah J. Zimmerman, 2020-07-24 Following tirailleurs' deployments in West Africa Congo Madagascar North Africa Syria Lebanon Vietnam and Algeria from the 1880s to 1962 Militarizing Marriage historicizes how African servicemen advanced conjugal strategies with women at home and abroad Sarah J Zimmerman examines the evolution of women's conjugal relationships with West African colonial soldiers to show how the sexuality gender and exploitation of women were fundamental to the violent colonial expansion and the everyday operation of colonial rule in modern French Empire These conjugal behaviors became military marital traditions that normalized the intimate manifestation of colonial power in social reproduction across the empire Soldiers' cross colonial and interracial households formed at the intersection of race and sexuality outside the colonizer colonized binary Militarizing Marriage uses contemporary feminist scholarship on militarism and violence to portray how the subjugation of women was indispensable to military conquest and colonial rule

Chinese Presence in Nigeria (1950s-2010s) Shaonan Liu, 2022-06-29 As the first book length work on the history of Chinese presence in Nigeria this book examines how Chinese migrants and the Nigerian state workers traders and consumers interacted with and influenced one another from the mid twentieth century to the early twenty first century Based on a combination of archival sources and oral history interviews this book argues that the significant Chinese presence in Nigeria Chinese owned factories commodities and entrepreneurs is not as recent a phenomenon as it might appear As early as the 1950s an influential yet understudied group of Chinese entrepreneurs moved to Nigeria set up factories and gradually came to dominate some of the country s key manufacturing industries such as textile and enamelware over subsequent decades Such dominance remained unchallenged until the coming of mainland Chinese traders with their made in China goods in the late 1990s dramatically changing the structure and influential pattern of the Chinese in Nigeria The research also emphasizes African Nigerian agency in shaping this Chinese presence both economically and culturally This is a vital read for academics researchers and students of African History African Studies Chinese Studies and those who are interested in contemporary issues relating to Africa China relations

Categories and Contexts Simon Szreter, Hania Sholkamy, A. Dharmalingam, 2004-03-18 Throughout its history as a social science demography has been associated with an exclusively quantitative orientation for studying social problems As a result demographers tend to analyse population issues scientifically through sets of fixed social categories that are divorced from dynamic relationships and local contexts and processes This volume questions these fixed categories in two ways First it examines the historical and political circumstances in which such categories had their provenance and second it reassesses their uncritical applications over space and time in a diverse range of empirical case studies encouraging throughout a constructive interdisciplinary dialogue involving anthropologists demographers historians and sociologists This volume seeks to examine the political complexities that lie at the heart of population studies by focusing on category formation category use and category critique It shows that this takes the form of a dialectic between the needs for clarity of scientific and administrative analysis and the recalcitrant diversity of the social contexts and human processes that generate population change The critical reflections of each chapter are enriched by meticulous ethnographic fieldwork and historical research drawn from every continent This volume therefore exemplifies a new methodology for research in population studies one that does not simply accept and re use the established categories of population science but seeks critically and reflexively to explore test and re evaluate their meanings in diverse contexts It shows that for demography to realise its full potential it must urgently re examine and contextualize the social categories used today in population research

Steven Pierce,2005 In Farmers and the State in Colonial Kano Steven Pierce examines issues surrounding the colonial state and the distribution of state power in northern Nigeria Here Pierce deconstructs the colonial state and offers a unique reading of land tenure that challenges earlier views of the role of indirect rule According to Pierce land tenure was the means the colonial government used to rule the local population and extract taxes from them but it was also a political logic with a fundamental flaw and a Western bias In Pierce s view colonial representations of land tenure claimed to reflect pre colonial systems of rule but instead fundamentally misrepresented farmers experience He maintains that this misrepresentation created a paradox at the core of the colonial state which persists into the present and helps to explain contemporary problems in African states In this sweeping and eloquent account of African history readers will find an extended genealogy of land law and taxation as well as rich material on the power of indigenous knowledge and the persistence of colonial systems of rule Steven T Pierce is Assistant Professor of History at Tulane University     The Muslim World Book Review ,1997     New Literature on Women ,1998     Africa ,1997 This indispensable tool provides a breadth and depth of resources for anyone interested in understanding the changing and complex reality that is Africa today To many outside the continent Africa appears to be remote and inaccessible But this doesn t have to be so The print and audiovisual resources gathered together in this directory demonstrate that there are many ways to access this huge and diverse continent     Paideuma ,2006     The International Journal of African Historical Studies ,2003     Power, Authority, and Gender in Kankan-Baté, 1650-1920 Emily Lynn Osborn,2000
