Marriage, Debt, and the Estates System John Habakkuk, 1994 Marriage, Debt, and the Estates System H. J. Habakkuk, 1994 This major study by a leading British historian examines the social and legal foundations of the British ruling class the great landlords and the gentry from the late seventeenth century when it freed itself from many of the constraints of royal power to the twentieth century when it was subsumed by mass democracy Habakkuk's comprehensive book addresses the question of why in the first industrial nation the landed elite so long retained its role This thorough examination of the structure of the landed family its estate and its relations with other social groups sheds light on this problem and makes a major contribution to historical debate It will be of interest to scholars and students of early modern and modern British history especially social economic legal and family historians Biographical Memoirs of Fellows British Academy, 2004 Volume 124 of the Proceedings of the British Academy contains 19 obituaries of recently deceased Fellows of the British Academy

Consumption and the Country House Jon Stobart, Mark Rothery, 2016-05-20 This study explores the consumption practices of the landed aristocracy of Georgian England Focussing on three families and drawing on detailed analysis of account books receipted bills household inventories diaries and correspondence Consumption and the Country House charts the spending patterns of this elite group during the so called consumer revolution of the eighteenth century Generally examined through the lens of middling families homes and motivations this book explores the ways in which the aristocracy were engaged in this wider transformation of English society Analysis centres on the goods that the aristocracy purchased both luxurious and mundane the extent to which they pursued fashionable modes and goods the role that family and friends played in shaping notions of taste the influence of gender on taste and refinement the geographical reach of provisioning and the networks that lay behind this consumer activity and the way this all contributed to the construction of the country house The country house thus emerges as much more than a repository of luxury and splendour it lay at the heart of complex networks of exchange sociability demand and supply Exploring these processes and relationships serves to reanimate the country house making it an active site of consumption rather than simply an expression of power and taste and drawing it into the mainstream of consumption histories At the same time the landed aristocracy are shown to be rounded consumers driven by values of thrift and restraint as much as extravagant desires and valuing the old as well as the new not least as markers of their pedigree and heritage

The Palgrave Companion to Oxford Economics Robert A. Cord, 2021-06-16 The University of Oxford has been and continues to be one of the most important global centres for economics With six chapters on themes in Oxford economics and 24 chapters on the lives and work of Oxford economists this volume shows how economics became established at the University how it produced some of the world's best known economists including Francis Ysidro Edgeworth Roy Harrod and David Hendry and how it remains a global force for the very best in teaching and research in economics With original contributions from a stellar cast this volume provides economists especially those interested in macroeconomics and the history of economic thought with the first in depth analysis of Oxford economics The Poverty of Planning Benno Engels,2021-01-15 Using a neo Marxian perspective Benno Engels examines the absence of urban planning in nineteenth century England In his analysis of urbanization in England Engels considers the influences of property owners inheritance laws local government structures fiscal crises of the local and central state shifts in voter sentiments fluctuating economic conditions and class based pressure group activity Creating Paradise Richard Wilson,2000-12-01 Building or rebuilding their houses was one of the main concerns of the English nobility and gentry some might say their greatest achievement This is the first book to look at the building of country houses as a whole Creating Paradise shows why owners embarked on building programmes often following the Grand Tour or excursions around other houses in England where they looked for architectural inspiration and assistance and how the building was actually done It deals not only with great houses including Holkham and Castle Howard but also the diversity of smaller ones such as Felbrigg and Dyrham and shows the cost not only of building but of decorating and furnishing houses and of making their gardens Creating Paradise is an important and original contribution to its subject and a highly readable account of the attitude of the English ruling class to its most important Monarchy Transformed Robert von Friedeburg,John Morrill,2017-08-17 This decisive contribution to the long running debate about the dynamics of state formation and elite transformation in early modern Europe examines the new monarchies that emerged during the course of the long seventeenth century It argues that the players surviving the power struggles of this period were not states in any modern sense but primarily princely dynasties pursuing not only dynastic ambitions and princely prestige but the consequences of dynastic chance At the same time elites far from insisting on confrontation with the government of princes for principled ideological reasons had every reason to seek compromise and even advancement through new channels that the governing dynasty offered if only they could profit from them Monarchy Transformed ultimately challenges the inevitability of modern maps of Europe and shows how instead of promoting state formation the wars of the period witnessed the creation of several dynastic agglomerates and new kinds of aristocracy The Town House in Georgian London Rachel Stewart,2009 This title takes a fresh look at a familiar building type the town house in 18th century London and investigates the circumstances in which individuals made decisions about living in London and particularly about their West End house Proceedings of the British Academy, Volume 124.
