Microwave Passive Direction Finding:

Microwave Passive Direction Finding Stephen E. Lipsky, 2004 Microwave Passive Direction Finding unifies direction finding DF theory and brings together into a single source wide ranging information on the technology of measuring the direction of arrival of microwave signals. Throughout the material there is authoritative information useful to preparing a detailed technical proposal for new business that has been compiled from many years of defense industry presentations reports and systems development. Diagrams and photographs of state of the art equipment depict the methods discussed and equations and charts facilitate a hands on approach to calculating system performance. The book also presents rarely published systems concepts such as digital preprocessing, supercommutation and wide RF bandwidth signal detection methods. Specific sections cover evolution and use of monopulse passive DF receiver theory, design of antenna elements for conformal DF coverage, receiver configurations, DF antenna arrays, interferometer DF techniques, computation methods for signal detection, probability of detection, accuracy of DF systems, and signal processing and display methods. More than any book on this technology, Microwave Passive Direction Finding anticipates the questions that arise in the DF design process. The chapters are organized to stand alone, making the book useful as a text reference for the practicing engineer. At the same time, the material is organized inductively so that it can be used for a college or seminar text.

Human Ears Inspired Passive Microwave Direction Finding, 2009 We have investigated biological inspired RF direction finding techniques with the goal to learn and utilize the amazing acoustic direction finding capabilities of human and achieve compact high performance and low cost RF direction finding devices. Our initial simulation and experimental results are very encouraging. Through the 9 month STIR program, Human Ears Inspired Microwave Passive Direction Finding prototype direction finding systems including antennas, human head like low pass scatter and digital receiver have been successfully designed and built. Several biological inspired hardware configurations i.e. head like scatters of various properties, omni directional antennas and preliminary algorithms have been theoretically and experimentally tested. The effectiveness of the novel human head like scatter has been clearly demonstrated. In addition, we have performed initial investigation of single antenna direction finding for broadband RF signals. The most important goal of the STIR program, which is to develop an experimental test bed so that it can be used in the near future to study and develop novel RF direction finding techniques inspired by the amazing human auditory system, has been achieved.

Electronic Warfare Receivers and Receiving Systems Richard A. Poisel, 2015-06-01 Receivers systems are considered the core of electronic warfare EW intercept systems. Without them, the fundamental purpose of such systems is null and void. This book considers the major elements that make up receiver systems and the receivers that go in them. This resource provides system design engineers with techniques for design and development of EW receivers for modern modulations, spread spectrum, in addition to receivers for older common modulation formats. Each major module in these receivers is considered in detail. Design information is included as well as performance tradeoffs of various components Major factors that influence the functioning of the modules are identified and discussed Key performance parameters are identified as well and approaches to achieving design goals are considered Digital Techniques for Wideband Receivers James B. Tsui,2004-06-30 This book is a current comprehensive design guide for your digital processing work with today's complex receiver systems This book brings you up to date with the latest information on wideband electronic warfare receivers the ADC testing procedure frequency channelization and decoding schemes and the operation of monobit receivers

Introduction to Modern EW Systems, Second Edition Andrea De Martino,2018-06-30 In answer to great demand Artech House is proud to bring professionals a newly revised and updated edition of the bestselling book Introduction to Modern EW Systems The Second Edition has been greatly expanded to include a wealth of new material from remote piloted airborne systems directed energy weapons and non cooperative air surveillance to EW radar band sensor next generation architectures real time data links and smart jamming This authoritative resource provides engineers and students with the latest electronic warfare EW techniques and technologies related to on board military platforms Practitioners gain expert design guidance on technologies and equipment used to detect and identify emitter threats offering an advantage in the never ending chess game between sensor guided weapons and EW systems This unique book provides deeper insight into EW systems principles of operation and their mathematical descriptions arming professionals with better knowledge for their specific design applications Moreover readers get practical information on how to counter modern communications data links which provide connectivity and command flow among the armed forces in the battlefield Taking a sufficiently broad perspective this comprehensive volume offers a panoramic view of the various physical domains RF Infrared and electronics that are present in modern electronic warfare systems This in depth book is supported with over 340 illustrations and more than 450 equations

Fundamentals of the Radiolocation and Radionavigation Stanisław Rosłoniec,2023-01-04 The book presents principles of operation of radar and radionavigation systems The group of radar systems includes primary and secondary radiolocations bistatic and multistatic systems They are illustrated with relevant examples of calculation and applications The issues of increasing the range of the radar systems are presented together with the matched filtering of the used signals Other discussed issues are methods for eliminating interfering signals and researching methods of 3D space Various methods of the monopulse radiolocation are presented in Chapter 12 In Chapters 13-18 terrestrial and satellite radionavigation systems are under discussion The terrestrial systems are Loran C Decca Navigator and Omega The TRANSIT is an example of a hyperbolic satellite system The stadiometric systems GPS GLONASS GALILEO BeiDou IRNSS and QZSS are discussed together with differential systems augmenting them The ILS MLS and TLS supporting the landing of aircrafts are discussed in Chapter 17 The prospects for replacing them with satellite systems augmented by appropriate reference ground based stations GBAS are also analyzed Various beacons and ranging devices used in aviation are described in the Chapter 18 This book is intended primarily for students and engineers interested in radar radionavigation and
