Open Field Magnetic Resonance Imaging D.H.W. Grönemeyer, R.B. Lufkin, 2012-12-06 Until the advent of the Access open magnet introduced by Diasonics in 1988 claustrophobia and the loud hammering noise were considered part of the price patients had to pay for the benefits of this superb imaging approach. The fact that it was possible to obtain images of acceptable diagnostic quality while the patient was resting comfortably in pleasant airy surroundings reminiscent of a four poster bed was certainly a great advantage. It became obvious however that the open magnet also offered the opportunity for the interventional radiologist or surgeon to perform procedures as access to the patient was immediate and can be continuous during the scanning. It was also necessary to develop methods for real time imaging and also vary the spatial resolution obtaining the best when speed was not essential. After this instrument showed the potential of revolutionizing both the approach to imaging as well as interventional radiology by eliminating the exposure to ionizing radiation allowing more complicated interventions to be image guided several other companies embraced the idea of open magnets. These instruments have started to proliferate and now occupy a significant portion of the market.

CARS 2002 Computer Assisted Radiology and Surgery Heinz U. Lemke, 2002 Progress in specific computer assisted techniques digital imaging computer aided diagnosis image guided surgery MEMS etc combined with computer assisted integration tools offers a valuable complement to or replacement for existing procedures in healthcare. Physicians are now employing PACS and telemedicine systems as enabling infrastructures to improve quality of and access to healthcare. Tools based on CAD and CAS facilitate completely new paths in patient care. To ensure that CARS tools benefit the patient collaboration between various disciplines specifically radiology surgery engineering informatics and healthcare management is a critical factor. A multidisciplinary congress like CARS is a step in the desired direction of knowledge sharing and crossover education. It provides the necessary cooperative framework for advancing the development and application of modern computer assisted technologies in healthcare.
