Sir John Fortescue

Opera Et Cetera:

Opera Et Cetera Ciaran Carson, 1996 Ciaran Carson is one of Ulster's most forceful poets. Winner of the T S Eliot Prize in 1993 for First Language. That collection saw the first airing of a new narrative technique used throughout Opera Et Cetera: long-lined rhyming couplets echoing Irish ballad metre with its criss-cross assonances. These innovative new poems contemplate the structure and authority of language. The book is framed by two long sequences: one based on the letters of the alphabet, the other on radio operator's code as distorting mirrors of each other. They continually call into question how we tell each other stories all the time. Two other sequences complete the book: Et Cetera plays with the near-moribund vocabulary of Latin tags, while Alibi consists of versions from Romanian poet Stefan Augustin Doinas. In its juggling with the nuts and bolts of words in its obsessive musical sweep, Opera Et Cetera is a tour de force. It is also sometimes very funny.

Poetry Book Society Choice Writing Home Elmer Kennedy-Andrews, 2008 The idea of place and of being displaced is a powerful leitmotif in Northern Irish poetry. It is here explored in depth from the 1960s to the present day. Ideas of home, place and identity have been continually questioned, re-imagined and re-constructed in Northern Irish poetry. Concentrating on the period since the outbreak of the Troubles in the late 1960s, this study provides a detailed consideration of the work of several generations of poets from Hewitt and MacNeice to Fiacc and Montague to Simmons, Heaney, Mahon and Longley to Muldoon, Carson, Paulin and McGuckian to McDonald, Morrissey, Gillis and Flynn. It traces the extent to which their writing represents a move away from concepts of rootedness and towards a deterritorialized poetics of displacement, mobility, openness and pluralism in an era of accelerating migration and globalisation. In the new readings of place, inherited maps are no longer reliable and home is no longer the stable ground of identity but seems instead to be always where it is not. The crossing of boundaries and the experience of diaspora open up new understandings of the relations between places, a new sense of the permeability and contingency of cultures and new concepts of identity and home.

Professor ELMER KENNEDY ANDREWS teaches in the Department of English at the University of Ulster Continuity and Change in Irish Poetry, 1966-2010

Eric Falci, 2012-07-30 In this book, Eric Falci reshapes the story of Irish poetry since the 1960s. He shows how polemical arguments concerning the role of poetry in 1960s Ireland evolve into a set of formal and compositional strategies for emerging Irish poets in the mid 1970s and beyond. His study presents a cohesive picture of the relationship between Northern Irish poetry from the Republic of Ireland since World War II and traces the lineage of lyric practice from a unique historical perspective. At the same time, it recontextualizes late twentieth century Irish poetry within the long Irish poetic tradition, placing Irish writing more accurately within the field of postwar Anglophone poetry and offers a new account of lyric's critical capacities. Of interest to Irish studies and twentieth century poetry specialists, this book provides a much-needed guide to some of the most inventive and notable poetry written in the past forty years. Tongue of Water, Teeth of Stones Jonathan Hufstader, 2021-12-14 In a 1984 lecture on poetry and political violence, Seamus Heaney remarked that the idea of poetry was itself that higher ideal to which the poets had unconsciously turned in order to survive the demeaning conditions Jonathan Hufstader examines the work of Heaney and his contemporaries to discover how poems combining conscious technique with unconscious impulse work as aesthetic forms and as strategies for emotional survival In his powerful study Hufstader shows how a number of contemporary Northern Irish poets including Seamus Heaney Derek Mahon Michael Longley Paul Muldoon Tom Paulin Ciar n Carson and Medbh McGuckian explore the resources of language and poetic form in their various responses to cultural conflict and political violence Focusing on both style and social contexts Hufstader explores the tension between solidarity and art between the poet s need to belong and to rebel He believes that an understanding of the power of lyric points towards an understanding of the source of social violence and of its cessation

The American Architect [and] the Architectural Review ,1923 Catena Aurea Thomas Aquinas,1876 This is volume two of a five volume effort by one of History's greatest commentators on the Gospels. This work is written for one who does have a fluid knowledge of philosophy not alone Thomas Aquinas. What this accomplishes is to provide a modern version of the Catena Aurea in today's verbiage and related issues while in keeping with the flow and content of the original. It is not hard to admire St Thomas Aquinas immovably caught in the splendor of a stained glass window it is easy to pay tribute to his Summa Theologica as long as it remains high on a bookshelf giving character to a library. Under these circumstances we of the twenty first century can read about them both talk about them enthusiastically but pretty much leave them both alone. Aquinas is one who regardless of your placement on your spiritual journey Aquinas is the basis for so much of what we have come to regard as dogma. This work is essential to not only understanding Aquinas's other works but also our own journey.
