 Anne Sonnet, 2009-08-19 Improving the performance of youth on the labour market is a crucial challenge in OECD countries facing persistent youth unemployment As labour markets become more and more selective a lack of relevant skills brings a higher risk of unemployment Whatever the level of qualification first experiences on the labour market have a profound influence on later working life Getting off to a good start facilitates integration and lays the foundation for a good career while a failure can be difficult to make up Ensuring a good start will require co-ordinated policies to bring the education system closer to the labour market to help disadvantaged young people to find a job or participate in a training course and to facilitate the hiring of young people by firms OECD has launched a series of reports on the school to work transition process in sixteen countries including France Each report contains a survey of the main barriers to employment for young people an assessment of the adequacy and effectiveness of existing measures to improve the transition from school to work and a set of policy recommendations for further action by the public authorities and social partners This report is based on the proceedings of a seminar and is published in both English and French The Summary and Recommendations at the beginning of the volume are translated into French in the English version and into English in the French version Already published in
