illustrate how maple syrup as both process and product is an aspect of cultural identity Readers will go deep into a Vermont

Kaplan,2019-11-19 Food is a challenging subject There is little consensus about how and what we should produce and consume It is not even clear what food is or whether people have similar experiences of it On one hand food is recognized as a basic need if not a basic right On the other hand it is hard to generalize about it given the wide range of practices and cuisines and the even wider range of tastes This book is an introduction to the philosophical dimensions of food David M Kaplan examines the nature and meaning of food how we experience it the social role it plays its moral and political dimensions and how we judge it to be delicious or awful He shows how the different branches of philosophy contribute to a broader understanding of food what food is metaphysics how we experience food epistemology what taste in food is aesthetics how we should make and eat food ethics how governments should regulate food political philosophy and why food matters to us existentialism Kaplan embarks on a series of philosophical investigations considering topics such as culinary identity and authenticity tasting and food criticism appetite and disgust meat eating and techno foods and consumerism and conformity He emphasizes how different narratives help us navigate the complex world of food and reminds us we all have responsibilities to ourselves to others and to animals An original treatment of a timely subject Food Philosophy is suitable for undergraduates while making a significant contribution to scholarly debates The Meaning of Food to Kids in Working Families Elaine Bell Kaplan, 1999 Geographies of Food Moya Kneafsey, Damian Maye, Lewis Holloway, Michael K. Goodman, 2021-01-28 What is the future of food in light of growing threats from the climate emergency and natural resource depletion as well as economic and social inequality? This textbook engages with this question and considers the complex relationships between food place and space providing students with an introduction to the contemporary and future geographies of food and the powerful role that food plays in our everyday lives. Geographies of Food explores contemporary food issues and crises in all their dimensions as well as the many solutions currently being proposed. Drawing on global case studies from the Majority and Minority Worlds it analyses the complex relationships operating between people and processes at a range of geographical scales from the shopping decisions of consumers in a British or US supermarket to food insecurity in Sub Saharan Africa to the high level political negotiations at the World Trade Organization and the strategies of giant American and European agri businesses whose activities span several continents. With over 60 color images and a range of lively pedagogical features Geographies of Food is essential reading for undergraduates studying food and geography.

Notices of Judgment Under the Food and Drugs Act United States. Food and Drug Administration, 1918 Endogenous Regional Development: Cottage Industries in Tasmanian Agriculture (PhD Thesis) Anna Gralton, 2007-01-01 This PhD study explores a culture industry that of the artisanal food industry in Tasmanian agriculture. <https://eprints.utas.edu.au/8039/> Food production and consumption is a highly controversial socio political process whereby diverse values and beliefs levels of resources and interests struggle for survival. The resultant manifestation of this struggle in the form of products production methods and actions stand testament to the diversity. This thesis demonstrates the politicised nature of food production by examining the paradox of enterprise expansion while retaining a number of identities tags associated with small scale food businesses and their products i.e. cottage industry, artisanality and quality food. The implications of these findings for the development of the artisanal food industry are also explored. Two phases of data collection were involved in exploring these issues. A first phase was a scoping study involving document analysis, semi structured interviews with local knowledgeables and a range of cottage industries and initial fieldwork. The second phase involved a case study analysis with three small scale agricultural cottage enterprises (SACEs) and three that had expanded (ESACEs). The case studies primarily involved in depth semi structured interviews. The research found that the cottage industry identity was meaningful as applied to the SACEs but also that many of the defining characteristics of a cottage industry were also applicable to the ESACEs. Artisanality was found to be an appropriately assigned label in both the small scale and expanded enterprises with a set of specific characteristics approaches and the principals role as artisanal entrepreneur authenticating the ESACEs and their products as artisanal. It was found that the enterprises under study aligned with Ray's 2003 notion of the cultural approach to Endogenous Regional Development (ERD) and particular place and space characteristics whilst the short food supply chain a collective form of social action assisted in facilitating the preservation of these associated identities tags In examining the retention of food quality meanings upon expansion the same set of characteristics and qualities that are potentially used and applicable to the SACEs in defining quality were also found to be relevant in the ESACEs In examining the cottage industry artisanal and quality identities this research demonstrated that there are more similarities than differences between the SACEs and ESACEs and that growth can occur without necessarily compromising values and actions all of which enable identity preservation and value adding potentialities Moreover the current use of the short food supply chain holds significant promise for this industry as it assists in building relationships and trust between processors and consumers who share similar values and beliefs surrounding food production and consumption In so doing food products are heavily laden with eco social information which can assist in challenging unsustainable agrifood production and related practice
