Measuring the Impact of Interprofessional Education on Collaborative Practice and Patient Outcomes Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Committee on Measuring the Impact of Interprofessional Education on Collaborative Practice and Patient Outcomes, 2015-12-15 Interprofessional teamwork and collaborative practice are emerging as key elements of efficient and productive work in promoting health and treating patients The vision for these collaborations is one where different health and or social professionals share a team identity and work closely together to solve problems and improve delivery of care Although the value of interprofessional education IPE has been embraced around the world particularly for its impact on learning many in leadership positions have questioned how IPE affects patient population and health system outcomes This question cannot be fully answered without well designed studies and these studies cannot be conducted without an understanding of the methods and measurements needed to conduct such an analysis This Institute of Medicine report examines ways to measure the impacts of IPE on collaborative practice and health and system outcomes According to this report it is possible to link the learning process with downstream person or population directed outcomes through thoughtful well designed studies of the association between IPE and collaborative behavior Measuring the Impact of Interprofessional Education on Collaborative Practice and Patient Outcomes describes the research needed to strengthen the evidence base for IPE outcomes Additionally this report presents a conceptual model for evaluating IPE that could be adapted to particular settings in which it is applied Measuring the Impact of Interprofessional Education on Collaborative Practice and Patient Outcomes addresses the current lack of broadly applicable measures of collaborative behavior and makes recommendations for resource commitments from interprofessional stakeholders funders and policy makers to advance the study of IPE International Best Practices for Evaluation in the Health Professions William McGaghie, 2022-02-16 This unique text presents a comprehensive narrative on why and how health professions students need to be evaluated for practice in the 21st century It systematically addresses current evaluation best practices in the health professions to identify today's evaluation benchmarks reveal evaluation limits address improvement pathways and map a research agenda to boost future evaluation practices Advancements in information and communication technology bioscience and behavioral research and worldwide travel are dissolving barriers that have separated professions countries and cultures for centuries This book both celebrates these achievements and carefully considers next steps It recognizes the huge improvements made in evaluation practices within the health professions over the past 40 years but asks for more calling for added reform and better understanding of current practice from different social cultural and educational perspectives International Best Practices for Evaluation in the Health Professions values crossprofessional programs that span boundaries and acknowledge the authority of the future rather than historical baggage Educators worldwide will be enlightened and inspired by its straightforward compelling narrative Methods and Problems of Medical Education Rockefeller Foundation, 1926 Graduate Medical Education Outcomes and Metrics National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Health Care Services, 2018-05-30 Graduate medical education GME is critical to the career development of individual physicians to the functioning of many teaching institutions and to the production of our physician workforce However recent reports have called for substantial reform of GME The current lack of established GME outcome measures limits our ability to assess the impact of individual graduates the performance of residency programs and teaching institutions and the collective contribution of GME graduates to the physician workforce To examine the opportunities and challenges in measuring and assessing GME outcomes the National Academies of Sciences Engineering and Medicine held a workshop on October 10 11 2017 in Washington DC Workshop participants discussed meaningful and measurable outcomes of GME possible metrics that could be used to track these GME outcomes possible mechanisms for collecting collating analyzing and reporting these data and further work to accomplish this ambitious goal This publication summarizes the presentations and discussions from the workshop Measuring Medical Professionalism David Thomas Stern, 2006 Patients who are confident of physicians intellectual and technical abilities are sometimes not convinced of their professional behavior Systemic and anecdotal cases of physician misconduct conflict of interest and self interest abound Many have even come to mistrust physicians as patient advocates How can patients trust the intellectual and technical aspects of medical care but not the professional In order to enhance and promote professionalism in medicine one should expect it encourage it and evaluate it By measuring their own professional behavior physicians can provide the kind of transparency with which they can regain the trust of patients and society Not only patients but also institutions which accredit organizations have demanded accountability of physicians in their professional behavior While there has been much lament and a few strong proposals for improving professionalism no single reliable and valid measure of the success of these proposals exists This book is a theory to practice text focused on ways to evaluate professional behavior written by leaders in the field of medical education and assessment Medical Education in the United States ,1908 The Study and
