Most Moved Mover:

Most Moved Mover Clark H. Pinnock, 2019-10-01 In 1994 Clark Pinnock along with four other scholars published The Openness of God which set out a new evangelical vision of God one centered on his open relational and responsive love for creation. Since then the nature of God has been widely discussed throughout the evangelical community. Now Pinnock returns with Most Moved Mover to once again counter the classical deterministic view of God and defend the relationality and openness of God. This engaging defense of openness theology begins with an analysis of the current debate followed by an explanation of the misconceptions about openness theology and a delineation of areas of agreement between classical and openness theologians. Most Moved Mover is for all evangelicals regardless of their viewpoint as it lays out the groundwork for future discussions of the open view of God.

Most Moved Mover Clark H. Pinnock, 2001 This defense of openness theology begins with an analysis of the current debate followed by an explanation of the misconceptions about openness theology and a delineation of areas of agreement between classical and openness theologians.

Constructing a

Mediating Theology J. D. Kim, 2022-11-16 How does an almighty and all loving God respond to his beloved human creatures who are made in his image and yet implicated in sin and suffering? What is the origin of human suffering? Is it sin or the limitations of human beings? Is God moved by our suffering? If he sympathizes and co suffers with us can he deliver us out of our miseries? Thousands and perhaps millions of people have asked these questions and are searching desperately for their answers. Two major views have been advanced in the history of Christian theology to describe God's response to the suffering of the world: divine impassibility and divine passibility. More recently a third mediating position between impassibility and passibility has arisen which affirms both the impassibility and the passibility of God. This position can be identified as modified classical theism, an approach that grasps the perfect and relational nature of God. Following this mediating position, this book sets out its own constructive understanding of a mediating position with the help of a new way of understanding the way in which the eternal actions and corresponding passions of the divine persons condition one another: the dynamic reciprocity model.

The Future of Open Theism Richard Rice, 2020-04-28 Evangelical theology has grappled with open theism and its alternative doctrine of God for decades. Richard Rice recounts the history of open theism from its antecedents and early developments to its more recent expressions, considering how it might continue to develop in relation to several primary doctrines of the Christian faith.

Boundless Love Andrew Ray Williams, 2021-07-22 Clark H. Pinnock (1937-2010) was arguably one of the most noted productive and provocative Christian theologians in North American evangelical Christianity in the late twentieth century. Considering how challenging he is to classify and yet how significant his work has been, Pinnock should be widely studied today. However, for many, their first introduction to Pinnock's writing is facilitated through various critical sources. For too long, Pinnock's theology has been stuck within the confines of tired stereotypes and overly simplistic summaries. Andrew Ray Williams then gives Pinnock a fresh and fair hearing, outlining some of his major themes while also providing an accessible point of entry into his theology. In doing so this book is usable and profitable for both longtime fans as well as critics of Pinnock while also offering first time readers of Pinnock an open minded position from which to read him. Consuming Glory Gannon Murphy, 2006-09-22 In the late 1990s Open Theism took the theological world by storm. Advocated by several prominent theologians among them Clark H Pinnock the view argues that human beings cannot have a genuine relationship with God if God possesses what classical theology has affirmed to be exhaustive foreknowledge of future events. Such foreknowledge open theists claim would make human freedom and salvation itself meaningless and divine power akin to little more than meaningless cosmic puppeteering. While several works have taken the important step of addressing open theism's scriptural deficiencies in its denial of God's foreknowledge none have dealt with the vital issue of divine human relationality and how it can be understood in a classical orthodox framework that maintains such foreknowledge. Consuming Glory remedies that lack by first providing a fresh critique of open theism using Clark Pinnock's version of it as representative but then offering a reconstruction of divine human relationality centered on the Biblical principle of Christus in nobis Christ in us Christus in nobis is coupled with an outworking of meticulous divine providence that serves God's own self glorifying orientation. It reverses the relational ordering advocated in open theism by grounding human love of God theologically rather than anthropologically. Love of God and divine human relationality is established precisely because it is God's own self love that is providentially given to us and thus reciprocated as believers are brought into adoptive communion with the Triune Godhead. Drawing on diverse resources throughout the corpus of historical theology Murphy concludes that divine human relationality can be summarized as God delighting in himself in us.

Freedom Unlimited Jeffrey S. Hocking, 2010-10-18 How are we to understand the freedom for which Christ has set us free Gal 5:1 Could it be that we have barely glimpsed what this might mean? Most theological accounts of freedom frame the discussion in terms of heteronomy or autonomy. In the Protestant tradition Calvinists are known for championing the former and Arminians are credited with advocating the latter. More recently open theists in significantly modifying the Arminian paradigm argue that neither tradition provides a satisfying account of human freedom and propose a more libertarian form of autonomy. This book joins the debate at this point not in order to take sides but to suggest a theology that can get beyond not between the heteronomy and autonomy that seem to exhaust the present theological options. Clark Pinnock serves as the chief protagonist because of his role as a leading figure in the Openness of God movement. Because his own development can be described as a pilgrimage from Calvinism to Arminianism to open theism the present work is able to offer its sympathetic critique in the form of an invitation that we continue to journey in the spirit of openness beyond both heteronomy and autonomy towards a view of divine and human freedom that is covenantal participatory and unlimited. The Nature of Love Thomas Jay Oord, 2010-04-01 God is love. Consequently, shouldn't love exist at the center of Christian theology? When love is at the center, theology is understood differently than it has typically been understood. Some theologians have placed faith at the center others God's sovereignty still others the Church but Dr Oord places the emphasis on love God's love for us revealed in Christ in the Church and in creation and our love for God and others as ourselves must be afforded its rightful place Beginning with the foundation of love is what differentiates the Christian faith from others a loving God Dr Oord defines love as To love is to act intentionally in sympathetic empathetic response to God and others to promote overall well being Is this not what has defined Christians throughout history
