Monthly Virgil V. McNitt,1923    How to Prevent Coups d'État Erica De Bruin,2020-11-15 In this lively and provocative book Erica De Bruin looks at the threats that rulers face from their own armed forces Can they make their regimes impervious to coups How to Prevent Coups d'État shows that how leaders organize their coercive institutions has a profound effect on the survival of their regimes When rulers use presidential guards militarized police and militia to counterbalance the regular military efforts to oust them from power via coups d'État are less likely to succeed Even as counterbalancing helps to prevent successful interventions however the resentment that it generates within the regular military can provoke new coup attempts And because counterbalancing changes how soldiers and police perceive the costs and benefits of a successful overthrow it can create incentives for protracted fighting that result in the escalation of a coup into full blown civil war Drawing on an original dataset of state security forces in 110 countries over a span of fifty years as well as case studies of coup attempts in Asia Africa Latin America and the Middle East De Bruin sheds light on how counterbalancing affects regime survival Understanding the dynamics of counterbalancing she shows can help analysts predict when coups will occur whether they will succeed and how violent they are likely to be The arguments and evidence in this book suggest that while counterbalancing may prevent successful coups it is a risky strategy to pursue and one that may weaken regimes in the long term

Media Imagery and Political Choice Laura Ann Granka,2011 The research presented in this manuscript contrasts a text only and graphical display of news to assess the personal and environmental factors affecting news preferences This research was conducted in two stages First an online experiment and survey of 1 000 participants assessed the effects of political attitudes personal demographics and visual cues on news selection behaviors Second an eyetracking study evaluated the ocular and cognitive behaviors associated with the processing of each news display Analyses specifically examined which factors influence i an individual's preferences for hard and soft news ii an individual's preferences for specific news sources and iii how stable or susceptible to change these preferences are over time Results indicate that visual design political attitudes and personal demographics all affect the type of news and source selected Specifically a graphical news layout encourages the selection of soft news categories though this is moderated by education A graphical layout also enables more repeat selections to the same source Furthermore eyetracking shows that a graphical news format produces lower levels of attention and cognitive processing Broader implications for the future of news display and news acquisition are discussed
