paper from the year 2012 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade 3 0 University of Trier language English abstract This term paper deals with the question which literary genre does The Time Machine by H G Wells fits best into Should it be seen as a dystopian novel or should it be rather classified as a science fictional one and why is it so hard to classify As the novel shows characteristics for either genres the novel has to be analysed accurately In order do so and find an answer to the main question I will point out and examine relevant passages in the text which will help classifying Wells work Therefore it is essential to first of all define both literary genres These definitions are to include the origin of the genre main characteristics as well as appropriate background information As already mentioned the definitions will be followed by an in depth analysis of significant text passages Finally my conclusion is intended to sum up the most important findings and aims to present a classification based on the analysis in the main part American Studies International ,1985

David W. Sisk, 1997-12-30 As the 20th century has progressed dystopian fiction has gained power as utopian fiction has become increasingly irrelevant As an overtly didactic genre dystopia extrapolates terrifying near futures from disturbing current trends In order to quickly create an atmosphere that is at once plausible and terrifying dystopian writers almost universally turn to an idea certain to generate both fear and sympathy in the reader the dual concept of language as the primary tool by which repressive societies stifle dissent and simultaneously as the primary weapon used by rebels bent on understanding resisting and countering such oppression This volume traces the evolution of language's centrality in 20th century dystopias in English including Brave New World 1984 A Clockwork Orange The Handmaid's Tale Native Tongue The Judas Rose and Riddley Walker The brilliance of Orwell's 1984 has led to a backlash many critics have smugly asserted that as the year 1984 has passed without taking the shape of his fiction Orwell's novel and the dystopia in general have lost their affective power and relevance But as the 20th century progresses dystopian fiction has gained power as utopian fiction has become increasingly irrelevant As an overtly didactic genre dystopia extrapolates terrifying near futures from disturbing current trends In order to quickly create an atmosphere that is at once plausible and terrifying dystopian writers almost universally turn to an idea certain to generate both fear and sympathy in the reader the dual concept of language as the primary tool by which repressive societies stifle dissent and simultaneously as the primary weapon used by rebels bent on understanding resisting and countering such oppression This volume traces the evolution of language's centrality in 20th century dystopias in English beginning with Huxley's Brave New World and Orwell's 1984 As dystopian fiction has branched out to embrace multiple viewpoints and agendas the emphasis on language has remained at the center of the dystopian impulse These include the first person narrative dystopia such as Anthony Burgess's A Clockwork Orange the feminist dystopia such as Margaret Atwood's The Handmaid's Tale and Suzette Elgin's Native Tongue and The Judas Rose and the post apocalyptic mythic dystopia such as Russell Hoban's Riddley Walker While other scholars have often alluded to the importance of language within specific literary dystopias this book transcends earlier studies by presenting a generic model of dystopian language use
