Multilingual America:

Multilingual America Werner Sollors, 1998-08 Aside from the occasional controversy over Official English campaigns language remains the blind spot in the debate over multiculturalism Considering its status as a nation of non English speaking aborigines and of immigrants with many languages America exhibits a curious tunnel vision about cultural and literary forms that are not in English How then have non English speaking Americans written about their experiences in this country And what can we learn about America immigration and ethnicity from them Arguing that multilingualism is perhaps the most important form of diversity Multilingual America calls attention to and seeks to correct the linguistic parochialism that has defined American literary study By bringing together essays on important works by among others Yiddish Chinese American German American Italian American Norwegian American and Spanish American writers Werner Sollors here presents a fuller view of multilingualism as a historical phenomenon and as an ongoing way of life At a time when we are just beginning to understand the profound effects of language acquisition on the development of the brain Multilingual America forces us to broaden what in fact constitutes American literature

Native Voices Richard A. Grounds, George E. Tinker, David Eugene Wilkins, 2003 Native peoples of North America still face an uncertain future due to their unstable political, legal and economic positions. Views of their predicament continue to be dominated by non-Indian writers. In response, a dozen Native American writers here reclaim their rightful role as influential voices in debates about Native communities. These scholars examine crucial issues of politics, law and religion in the context of ongoing Native American resistance to the dominant culture. They particularly show how the writings of Vine Deloria Jr. have shaped and challenged American Indian scholarship in these areas since the 1960s. They provide key insights into Deloria's thought while introducing some critical issues confronting Native nations. Collectively these essays take up four important themes: indigenous societies as the embodiment of cultures of resistance; legal resistance to western oppression against indigenous nations; contemporary Native religious practices; and Native intellectual challenges to academia. Essays address indigenous perspectives on topics usually treated by non-Indians such as role of women in Indian society, the importance of sacred sites to American Indian religious identity and relationship of native language to indigenous autonomy. A closing essay by Deloria in vintage form reminds Native Americans of their responsibilities and obligations to one another and to past and future generations. This book argues for renewed cultivation of a Native American Studies that is more Indian centered.

German? American? Literature? Winfried Fluck, Werner Sollors, 2002 More than 25 000 German language titles have been published in the United States from the colonial period to the twentieth century. This book gives a fresh look at this rich historical tradition with essays discussing all genres of this colorful literature ranging from immigrant letters to experimental German language poetry by Jewish women from German American novelists and playwrights to Austrian refugee publishers and a psychological theorist of the movies. German American Literature reintroduces the modern reader to a fascinating subject that has gained new relevance in an age of increased global migrations.

Shannon Smith, 2001 Transnational America Berndt Ostendorf, 2002 Transnationalism has become one of the new key concepts designed to highlight areas of a positive dynamics in the context of an as yet amorphous process of globalization which many consider as tantamount to Americanization. But what does the much quoted fading of borders imply when we study its manifestations in the Western Hemisphere? Are the classic markers and containers of self of culture of ethnic or racial identity of economic and political nation truly fading? Or are we witnessing a realignment of borders? Perhaps merely a displacement that is new borders and with it a tacit reconfiguration of empire.
