Multiculturalism Of Fear:

The Multiculturalism of Fear Jacob T. Levy, 2000-08-17 This vital new liberal account of multiculturalism combines an analysis of the policy dilemmas faced by multiethnic states around the world with a philosophical consideration of multiculturalism and nationalism Jacob T Levy boldly argues that liberalism should not be centrally concerned with either preserving or transcending cultural communities practices and identities Rather he contends that liberalism should focus on mitigating evils such as inter ethnic civil wars and state violence against ethnic minorities In order for this multiculturalism of fear to be grounded in the realities of ethnic politics and conflict it must take seriously the importance people place on their ethnic identities and cultural practices without falling into a celebration of cultural belonging Levy applies his approach to a variety of policy problems including the regulation of sexist practices inside cultural communities secession and national self determination land rights and customary law and draws on cases from such diverse states as Australia Canada Israel India South Africa and the United States

The Multiculturalism of Fear Jacob T. Levy, 2000 Jacob Levy argues for a liberal account of multiculturalism that draws on a liberalism of fear like that articulated by Judith Shklar and inspired by Montesquieu Liberalism should focus on mitigating evils rather than support cultural belonging

Recommended for scholars interested in political communication, rhetoric, cultural studies, sociology, and media studies. Popular Culture and the Austerity Myth Pete Bennett, Julian McDougall, 2016-10-14

sociology and media studies      Popular Culture and the Austerity Myth Pete Bennett, Julian McDougall, 2016-10-14 Contemporary popular culture is engaged in a rich and multi levelled set of representational relations with austerity This volume seeks to explore these relations to ask how does popular culture give expression to austerity how are its effects conveyed how do texts reproduce and expose its mythic qualities It provides a reading of cultural texts in circulation in the present age of austerity Through its central focus popular culture it considers the impact and influence of austerity across media and textual categories The collection presents a theoretical deconstruction of popular culture s reproduction of and response to mythical expressions of austerity in Western culture spanning the United Kingdom North America Europe and the Middle East and textual events from political media discourse music videogames social media film television journalism folk art food protest movements slow media and the practice of austerity in everyday life      Hitotsubashi Journal of Social Studies ,1995      Beyond the Canon Maria Grever, Siep Stuurman, 2007-10-11 This book reflects on the culture wars over the historical canon in today's globalizing world. It discusses the attempts to review and transcend the received canon in historical research and teaching in Europe, Canada, the United States, and South Africa. In the aftermath of the culture wars, the national and Western canons still largely dominate teaching and public memory. The book addresses the challenge of moving beyond these traditional narratives without sacrificing history as a coherent, attractive, and teachable subject.

Fear of a Black America Donald Earl Collins, 2004. Fear of a Black America hits at the heart of America's collective hypocrisy around diversity and race. A contributing factor is the misconstruing of diversity or multiculturalism with race. Black and African American Multiculturalism is really about transforming American education and culture by giving all, regardless of race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, and socioeconomic status, a voice and a chance at enjoying all that America is supposed to offer. Fear of a Black America demonstrates the historical connections between multiculturalism and African Americans. Although multiculturalism has many supporters, cultural equality remains a tough pill for highbrow American culture, mainstream Americans, and many elite African Americans to swallow. Fear of a Black America's other theme centers on the recent battles over multiculturalism among African Americans and in the mainstream public arena. The main story is how the media worked in concert with conservatives to label multiculturalism as Black evil and divisive. These forces killed multiculturalism in the American public discourse even as employers, school districts, and universities used the idea to address their increasingly diverse workforces and classrooms. Multiculturalism is similar to a ghost: neither fully dead nor alive but in need of a resting place within America's multicultural future.

Applied Ethics Larry May, 2017-07-05. This best-selling text continues to fill an existing gap in the literature taught in applied ethics courses. As a growing number of courses that include the perspectives of diverse cultures are being added to the university curriculum, texts are needed that represent more multicultural and diverse histories and backgrounds. This new edition enhances gender coverage as nearly half of the pieces are now authored by women. The new edition also increases the percentage of pieces written by those who come from a non-Western background. It offers twelve up-to-date articles not found in previous editions on human rights, environmental ethics, poverty, war, and violence, gender, race, euthanasia, and abortion; all of these topics are addressed from Western and non-Western perspectives.

Austerity and Irish Women's Writing and Culture, 1980-2020 Deirdre Flynn, Ciara L. Murphy, 2022-07-18. Austerity and Irish Women's Writing and Culture, 1980-2020 focuses on the under-represented relationship between austerity and Irish women's writing across the last four decades. Taking a wide focus across cultural mediums, this collection of essays from leading scholars in Irish studies considers how economic policies impacted on and are represented in Irish women's writing during critical junctures in recent Irish history. Through an investigation of cultural production north and south of the border, this collection analyses women's writing using a multimedia approach through four distinct lenses: austerity, feminism, and conflict; arts and austerity; race and austerity; and spaces of austerity. This collection asks two questions: what sort of cultural output does austerity produce?

And if the effects of austerity are gendered then what are the gender specific responses to financial insecurity both national and domestic By investigating how austerity is treated in women s writing and culture from 1980 to 2020 this collection provides a much needed analysis of the gendered experience of economic crisis and specifically of Ireland s consistent relationship with cycles of boom and bust Thirteen chapters which focus on fiction drama poetry women s life writing and women s cultural contributions examine these questions This volume takes the reader on a journey across decades and forms as a means of interrogating the growth of the economic divide between the rich and the poor since the 1980s through the voices of Irish women
