Macroscopic Systems and Models George Eisenman,1972 Membranes George Eisenman,1973 Theory and Implementation of Economic Models for Sustainable Development J.C. van den Bergh,M.W. Hofkes,1998-06-30 There is widespread concern for long term environmental issues in relation to economic processes and developments Among the concerned scientists are economists who have taken up the challenge to apply economic insights and tools for the study of long term environment economy interactions and to give the concept of sustainable development economic hands and feet This book presents a pluralistic perspective on efforts problems and successes in this area This collection of papers was originally prepared for an international symposium titled Economic Modelling of Sustainable Development Between Theory and Practice which was hosted by the Vrije Universiteit in Amsterdam on December 20th 1996 The main motivation for this symposium was that the usefulness of the concept of sustainable development for theoretical and applied modelling is still being debated growth theorists resource economists ecological economists policy makers and many others are trying to deal with the concept in various and sometimes conflicting ways The aim of the symposium was to bring together different theoretical and implementational perspectives on modelling for sustainable development We hope that this volume will inform a wide audience about the perspectives and progress in this important area of research as well as stimulate further research notably on applied modelling and practical methods for the analysis of sustainable development at various spatial scales The papers have in due course been revised several times based on comments made by discussants referees and the editors
