Gone To The Shops Kelley Graham, 2008-09-30 When Adam Smith wrote in 1776 that England was a nation of shopkeepers he meant that commerce was a major factor in political decisions Smith's observation was even more on target for Victorian England shopkeepers shops and shopping were a vital part of life Those Victorians with resources could shop often and had many choices Industrialization and their imperial connections gave them an almost unprecedented array of goods Even the poor and working classes had more to eat and more to spend as the century progressed Here Graham explores the world of Victorian shops and shopping in colorful detail She offers information on the types of shops and goods they offered the people who owned and operated them those who frequented them and the contribution of shops and shopping to the Victorian lifestyle and economy Shopping in Victorian England reached a level of importance not wholly appreciated even by Victorians themselves New types of shops appeared offering an expanding array of goods inventively packaged and displayed for an expanding group of shoppers As the shops grew so did the activity part excursion for provisions part entertainment Women shopped most often but men too had their shops Victorians could by the end of the 19th century shop without even leaving their homes orders could be placed by mail telegraph or telephone Shops catered to all classes the rich the poor and the in between This book will help modern readers envision the Victorian shopping experience by taking them inside the shops and up to the counters Readers will learn how the shop was organized what services and goods were available and how goods made their way from the shop to the home Graham's compelling account provides a vivid glimpse into a vital but largely unappreciated aspect of Victorian life

Decolonization of Psychiatry in Jamaica Frederick W.

Hickling, 2021-09-14 This book traces the historical postcolonial journey of four generations of Jamaican psychiatrists challenging the European colonial civilizing mission of psychiatric care It details the process of deinstitutionizing patients with chronic mental illness using psychohistoriographic cultural therapy by engaging them in creating sociodrama and poetry writing not only to express and reverse the stigma contributing to their marginalized status but also to reconnect them to a centuries long history of oppression The author thereby demonstrates that psychological decolonization requires a seminal understanding of the complex mental inter relationship between slaves and slaveowners Further it is shown how the model analyzes the antipodal dialectic history of descendants of Africans enslaved in the New World by brutish British Imperialists suffering from the European psychosis of white supremacy Drawing together a detailed description of the sociopoem Madnificent Irations with an examination of Jamaica's political and social history and the author's personal experience this compelling work marks an important contribution to decolonial literature It will be of particular interest to
