New Orientations:

October 16 Görlich,2022-01-19 No detailed description available for October 16 Motivation and Second Language Acquisition Zoltán Dörnyei,Richard Schmidt,Richard W. Schmidt,2001 This volume the second in this series concerned with motivation and foreign language learning includes papers presented at a colloquium on second language motivation at the American Association for Applied Linguistics as well as a number of specially commissioned surveys Beyond

Equilibrium Theory M. Ross DeWitt,2000 Beyond Equilibrium Theory is a fundamentally new interpretation of social reality that introduces theories of social formation and transformation for micro and macro analysis of action systems and social movements Equilibrium and conflict are viewed as societal variants rather than as ideal or natural states Classical theorists are placed within a common theoretical framework in an analysis of social order and social change as separate continua Multiple path models trace changing patterns of partnering and power sharing Hypotheses are tested with field collected survey data regression analysis of higher order interactions and comparisons of means adjusted for other effects Researchers are provided with detailed methods of integrating theory and research including nonlinear models and new logics of causality

Perceptual Learning Barbara Doshier,Zhong-Lin Lu,2020-10-13 A comprehensive and integrated introduction to the phenomena and theories of perceptual learning focusing on the visual domain Practice or training in perceptual tasks improves the quality of perceptual performance often by a substantial amount This improvement is called perceptual learning in contrast to learning in the cognitive or motor domains and it has become an active area of research of both theoretical and practical significance This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the phenomena and theories of perceptual learning focusing on the visual domain Perceptual Learning explores the tradeoff between the competing goals of system stability and system adaptability signal and noise retuning and reweighting and top down versus bottom down processes It examines and evaluates existing research and potential future directions including evidence from behavior physiology and brain imaging and existing perceptual learning applications with a focus on important theories and computational models It also compares visual learning to learning in other perceptual domains and considers the application of visual training methods in the development of perceptual expertise and education as well as in remediation for limiting visual conditions It provides an integrated treatment of the subject for students and researchers and for practitioners who want to incorporate perceptual learning into their practice Practice or training in perceptual tasks improves the quality of perceptual performance often by a substantial amount This improvement is called perceptual learning in contrast with learning in the cognitive or motor domains Perceptual learning has been a very active area of research of both theoretical and practical interest Research on perceptual learning is of theoretical significance in illuminating plasticity in adult perceptual systems and in understanding the limitations of human information processing and how to improve them It is of practical significance as a potential method for the development of perceptual expertise in the normal population for its potential in advancing development and supporting healthy aging and for noninvasive amelioration of deficits in challenged populations by training Perceptual learning has become an increasingly important topic in biomedical research Practitioners in this area include science disciplines such as psychology neuroscience computer sciences and optometry and developers in applied areas of learning game design cognitive development and aging and military and biomedical applications Commercial development of training products protocols and games is a multi billion dollar industry Perceptual learning provides the basis for many of the developments in these areas This book is written for anyone who wants to understand the phenomena and theories of perceptual learning or to apply the technology of perceptual learning to the development of training methods and products Our aim is to provide an introduction to those researchers and students just entering this exciting field to provide a comprehensive and integrated treatment of the phenomena and the theories of perceptual learning for active perceptual learning researchers and to describe and develop the basic techniques and principles for readers who want to successfully incorporate perceptual learning into applied developments The book considers the special challenges of perceptual learning that balance the competing goals of system stability and system adaptability It provides a systematic treatment of the major phenomena and models in perceptual learning the determinants of successful learning and of specificity and transfer The book provides a cohesive consideration of the broad range of perceptual learning through the theoretical framework of incremental learning of reweighting evidence that supports successful task performance It provides a detailed analysis of the mechanisms by which perceptual learning improves perceptual limitations the relationship of perceptual learning and the critical period of development and the semi supervised modes of learning that dominate perceptual learning It considers limitations and constraints on learning multiple tasks and stimuli simultaneously the implications of training at high or low levels of performance accuracy and the importance of feedback to perceptual learning The basis of perceptual learning in physiology is discussed along with the relationship of visual perceptual learning to learning in other sensory domains The book considers the applications of perceptual learning in the development of expertise in education and gaming in training during development and aging and applications to remediation of mental health and vision disorders Finally it applies the phenomena and models of perceptual learning to considerations of optimizing training
