New Motherhood Cultural And Personal Transitions In The 1980s:

New Motherhood Mira Crouch, Lenore Manderson, 1993 The Australian study of pregnancy birth and early motherhood in the 1980s explores women's perceptions of childbearing in the context of an examination of social changes and ideological shifts over the last few decades Drawing on an eclectic selection of sources from sociology anthropology psychology medicine and popular literature the authors provide insights into the symbolic significance of social practices and imagery of reproduction and in particular the contemporary experience of labour in its cultural setting Economically written and elegantly argued the book addresses a wide range of issues in its treatment of birth and maternity as both substantive and theoretical concerns which extend the limits of current feminist perspectives on these matters Women's and men's attitudes to childbearing enmeshed in a web of social and political relationships are shown to be seduced as well as coerced by pressures and influences from many conflicting sources The authors consider these circumstances against the background of the complex social matrix of our time and acknowledge the fact that in this process more questions have been raised than answered

When Couples Become Parents Bonnie Fox, 2009-01-01 When Couples Become Parents examines the ways in which divisions based on gender both evolve and are challenged by heterosexual couples from late pregnancy through early parenthood

Trends in Midwifery Research Randell E. Balin, 2005 Midwifery is used to describe a number of different types of health practitioners other than doctors who provide prenatal care to expecting mothers attend the birth of the infant and provide postnatal care to the mother and infant Nurse midwives also provide gynaecological care to women of all ages Practitioners of midwifery are known as midwives a term used in reference to both women and men the term means with the woman Most are independent practitioners who work with obstetricians when the need arises They usually deal with normal births only but are trained to recognise and deal with deviation from the norm If something abnormal is discovered during prenatal care the client is sent to an obstetrician Other midwives will deal with abnormal births including breech birth There are two main divisions of modern midwifery in the United States nurse midwives and direct entry midwives In the United Kingdom midwives are practitioners in their own right and take responsibility for the antenatal intrapartum and immediate postnatal care of women In many parts of the world midwives deliver far more children than doctors This new book brings together the latest research on this ever changing field

The Afterlife Is Where We Come From Alma Gottlieb, 2015-10-31 When a new baby arrives among the Beng people of West Africa they see it not as being born but as being reincarnated after a rich life in a previous world Far from being a tabula rasa a Beng infant is thought to begin its life filled with spiritual knowledge How do these beliefs affect the way the Beng rear their children In this unique and engaging ethnography of babies Alma Gottlieb explores how religious ideology affects every aspect of Beng childrearing practices from bathing infants to protecting them from disease to teaching them how to crawl and walk and how widespread poverty limits these practices A mother of two Gottlieb includes moving discussions of how her experiences among the Beng changed the way she saw her own parenting Throughout the book she also draws telling comparisons between Beng and Euro American parenting bringing home just how deeply culture matters to the way we all rear our children All parents and anyone interested in the place of culture in the lives of infants and vice versa will enjoy The Afterlife Is Where We Come From This wonderfully reflective text should provide the impetus for formulating research possibilities about infancy and toddlerhood for this century Caren J Frost Medical Anthropology Quarterly Alma Gottlieb's careful and thought provoking account of infancy sheds spectacular light upon a much neglected topic It makes a strong case for the central place of babies in anthropological accounts of religion Gottlieb's remarkably rich account delivered after a long and reflective period of gestation deserves a wide audience across a range of disciplines Anthony Simpson Critique of Anthropology Becoming a mother Carla Pascoe Leahy, 2023-04-04 Becoming a mother charts the diverse and complex history of Australian mothering for the first time exposing the ways it has been both connected to and distinct from parallel developments in other industrialised societies In many respects the historical context in which Australian women come to motherhood has changed dramatically since 1945 And yet examination of the memories of multiple maternal generations reveals surprising continuities in the emotions and experiences of first time motherhood Drawing upon interdisciplinary insights from anthropology history psychology and sociology Carla Pascoe Leahy unpacks this multifaceted rite of passage through more than 60 oral history interviews demonstrating how maternal memories continue to influence motherhood today Despite radical shifts in understandings of gender care and subjectivity becoming a mother remains one of the most personally and culturally significant moments in a woman's life Australian Mothering Carla Pascoe Leahy, Petra Bueskens, 2020-01-28 This collection defines the field of maternal studies in Australia for the first time Leading motherhood researchers explore how mothering has evolved across Australian history as well as the joys and challenges of being a mother today The contributors cover pregnancy birth relationships childcare domestic violence time use work welfare policy and psychology from a diverse range of maternal perspectives Utilising a matricentric feminist framework Australian Mothering foregrounds the experiences emotions and perspectives of mothers to better understand how Australian motherhood has developed historically and contemporaneously Drawing upon their combined sociological and historical expertise Bueskens and Pascoe Leahy have carefully curated a collection that presents compelling research on past and present perspectives on maternity in Australia which will be relevant to researchers advocates and policy makers interested in the changing role of mothers in Australian society Transformative Power in Motherwork Marie Porter, 2008 This book explores the experiences of a group of Australian women who became first time mothers between 1950 and 1965 A grounded theory of transformative power in motherwork is presented that has emerged from the analysis of interviews The mothers talked about what they did in their active mothering years The author argues that despite being constrained by the gender bias in the patriarchal context these mothers were agents who developed skills that enabled them to resist or creatively deal with most of the constraints they faced Their emphasis was on their agency and the power to nurture their children into responsible adults Their awareness of the importance of their motherwork acted as a motivator in this development The author further argues that the relationship between each mother and each of her children is a transformative power relationship in which both mother and child are transformed the child into an independent adult and the mother into a skilled self motivated agent through her motherwork Any threat to this process resulted in the mother doing all she could to resist or counteract the constraint s she was encountering Transformative power expressed in motherwork can be recognised analytically by several characteristics It empowers both parties in the mother child duality Complexity diversity fluidity and responsiveness to the physical intellectual and emotional aspects of the relationship are all evident in transformative power relationships Feminist
