Montaging Pushkin Alexandra Smith,2006 Montaging Pushkin offers for the first time a coherent view of Pushkin s legacy to Russian twentieth century poetry giving many new insights Pushkin is shown to be a Russian forerunner of Baudelaire Furthermore it is argued that the rise of the Russian and European novel largely changed the ways Russian poets have looked at themselves and at poetic language that novelisation of poetry is detectable in the major works of poetry that engaged in a creative dialogue with Pushkin and that polyphonic lyric has been achieved Alexandra Smith locates significant examples of Pushkin s cinematographic cognition of reality suggesting that such dynamic descriptions of Petersburg helped create a highly original animated image of the city as comic apocalypse which followers of Pushkin appropriated very successfully even as far as the late twentieth century Montaging Pushkin will be of interest to all students of Russian poetry as well as specialists in literary theory European studies and the history of ideas Smith s thesis is both startling and original that Pushkin for all his Mozart like fluidity and perfection can be productively read as a poet of pain and violence His reflex was to respond to the totalizing authoritative public landscape of his era with an equally severe but specifically private individualizing disciplined set of demands on the Poet The recurring attention that later generations have paid toward those aspects of Pushkin s life and texts governed by the private right to resist or to initiate violence his duel his struggles with the bureaucracy his failed pursuit of service with honour suggest that this mythologeme is among the most productive in Pushkin s astonishing legacy CARYL EMERSON A Watson Armour III University Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures Chair of the Slavic Department Professor of Comparative Literature at Princeton University Smith s innovative study offers a wonderful analysis of how cinematographic editing and polyphony are detected in Russian twentieth century poetry It views Pushkin as a reference obligee of contemporary urban poetry VERONIQUE LOSSKY Professor Emeritus of Russian Literature at the Universite de Paris Sorbonne IV Twentieth-Century Russian Poetry Katharine Hodgson,Joanne Shelton,Alexandra Smith,2017-04-21 The canon of Russian poetry has been reshaped since the fall of the Soviet Union A multi authored study of changing cultural memory and identity this revisionary work charts Russia s shifting relationship to its own literature in the face of social upheaval Literary canon and national identity are inextricably tied together the composition of a canon being the attempt to single out those literary works that best express a nation s culture This process is of course fluid and subject to significant shifts particularly at times of epochal change This volume explores changes in the canon of twentieth century Russian poetry from the 1991 collapse of the Soviet Union to the end of Putin s second term as Russian President in 2008 In the wake of major institutional changes such as the abolition of state censorship and the introduction of a market economy the way was

Vasili Trediakovskiy Irina Reyfman, 1990 Vasili Trediakovskiy 1703 69 was one of the eighteenth century poets instrumental in creating a Russian literature based on West European models yet a striking discrepancy exists between his obvious importance and his notoriously bad reputation among his contemporaries and later generations of Russian writers and critics In exploring the mechanisms of the creation and transmission of literary reputation the author uses material that is frequently dismissed as irrelevant and unreliable rumors anecdotes and opinions This material is used to detect mythological patterns in accounts of the historical past in this case eighteenth century Russian literature and to investigate the role of mythmaking in modern cultural consciousness This book argues that the Russian literary figures of the eighteenth century regarded their age as making a complete break with the past and entering into a totally new stage of historical development

Twentieth-Century Russian Poetry Katharine Hodgson, Joanne Shelton, Alexandra Smith, 2020-10-09 The canon of Russian poetry has been reshaped since the fall of the Soviet Union. A multi authored study of changing cultural memory and identity this revisionary work charts Russia's shifting relationship to its own literature in the face of social upheaval. Literary canon and national identity are inextricably tied together the composition of a canon being the attempt to single out those literary works that best express a nation's culture. This process is of course fluid and subject to significant shifts particularly at times of epochal change. This volume explores changes in the canon of twentieth century Russian poetry from the 1991 collapse of the Soviet Union to the end of Putin's second term as Russian President in 2008. In the wake of major institutional changes such as the abolition of state censorship and the introduction of a market economy the way was open for wholesale reinterpretation of twentieth century poets such as Iosif Brodskii, Anna Akhmatova and Osip Mandel'shtam their works and their lives. In the last twenty years many critics have discussed the possibility of various coexisting canons rooted in official and non official literature and suggested replacing the term Soviet literature with a new definition Russian literature of the Soviet period. Contributions to this volume explore the multiple factors involved in reshaping the canon understood as a body of literary texts given exemplary or representative status as classics. Among factors which may influence the composition of the canon are educational institutions competing views of scholars and critics including figures outside Russia and the self canonising activity of poets themselves. Canon revision further reflects contemporary concerns with the destabilising effects of emigration and the internet and the desire to reconnect with pre revolutionary cultural traditions through a narrative of the past which foregrounds continuity. Despite persistent nostalgic yearnings in some quarters for a single canon the current situation is defiantly diverse balancing both the Soviet literary tradition and the parallel contemporaneous literary worlds of the emigration and the underground.
