New Priesthood British Television Today:

The New Priesthood: British Television Today Joan Bakewell, Nicholas Garnham, 1970 Interviews Television Producers Jeremy Tunstall, 2003-09-02 Covering all the major areas of television production this in depth work highlights the widely varying influences difficulties and opportunities at work in the industry Each kind of producer across the seven areas here examined faces the same practical issues of budget talent and equipment resources and end product expectations however the self image of the producers and the creative environment in which they work can differ greatly from one programming sector to the next and whilst their careers may run parallel they are usually cut off from one another ideologically Based on interviews from over two hundred and fifty producers working across a selection of British television channels as well as producers of a number of high profile American shows this book takes in a panoramic view of production models at work today and concludes with some insightful suggestions for the future Television Toby Miller, 2003 British Television Edward Buscombe, 2000 OXFORD TELEVISION STUDIES General Editors Charlotte Brunsdon and John Caughie Oxford Television Studies offers international authors both established and emerging an opportunity to reflect on particular problems of history theory and criticism which are specific to television and which are central to its critical understanding The perspective of the series will be international while respecting the peculiarities of the national it will be historical without proposing simple histories and it will be grounded in the analysis of programmes and genres The series is intended to be foundational without being introductory or routine facilitating clearly focused critical reflection and engaging a range of debates topics and approaches which will offer a basis for the development of television studies British television has been a success story One factor in this success has been the distinctive institutional structure of British broadcasting a mix of state regulated and publicly funded services with commercial services This book attempts to give a broad overview of British television by examining both the institutional framework and the programmes that it has produced A range of reprinted writings from the work of acknowledged experts is supplemented by specially commissioned essays on such key topics as sport and British television in the global context It will be a key text for all students taking courses on British television and broadcasting Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 2018-10-08 This book attacks the conventional history of the press as a story of progress offers a critical defence and history of public service broadcasting provides a myth busting account of the internet a subtle account of the impact of social media and explores key debates about the role and politics of the media It has become a standard book on media and other courses but it has also gone beyond an academic audience to reach a wider public Hailed as a classic of media history and analysis by the Irish Times and a book that has cracked the canon by the Times Higher it has been translated into five languages This edition contains six new chapters These include the press and the remaking of Britain the rise of the neo liberal Establishment the moral decline of journalism the impact of social media and a history of attempts to reform the press It contains new research on the relationship between programmes institutions and society It places key UK institutions in the wider context of international affairs and their impact The book has been updated to take account of new developments like Brexit and the rise of Jeremy Corbyn and the shift in authority and legitimacy prompted by social media It does this with a clear explanation of how policy can shape media outcomes

Adapting Science Fiction to Television Max Sexton, Malcolm Cook, 2015-07-01 Before it reached television science fiction existed on the printed page in comic books and on movie screens for decades Adapting science fiction to the new medium posed substantial challenges Small viewing screens and limited production facilities made it difficult to achieve the sense of wonder that had become the genre's hallmark Yet television also offered unprecedented opportunities Its serial nature allowed for longer more complex stories as well as developing characters and building suspense over time Producers of science fiction television programming learned to create adaptations that honored the source material literature comics or film while taking full advantage of television's unique aesthetic In Adapting Science Fiction to Television Small Screen Expanded Universe Max Sexton and Malcolm Cook examine how the genre evolved over time The authors consider productions in both the UK and the United States ranging from Walt Disney's acclaimed Man in Space in the 1950s to the BBC's reimagined Day of the Triffids in the 1990s Iconic characters from Flash Gordon and Captain Nemo to Superman and Professor Quatermass all play a role in this history along with such authors as E M Forster and Wernher von Braun The real stars of this study however are the pioneering producers and directors who learned how to bring imagined worlds and fantastic stories into living rooms across the globe The authors make the case that television has become more sophisticated capable of taking on larger themes and deploying a more complex use of the image than other media A unique reappraisal of the history and dynamics of the medium Adapting Science Fiction Television will be of interest not only to scholars of science fiction but to anyone interested in the early history of television as well as the evolution of its unique capacity to tell stories

Independent Television in Britain Bernard Sendall, Jeremy Potter, 1990-07-08 A companion to volume 3 Politics and Control 1968-80 this book covers aspects of the same period and completes the history of Independent Television from its origin and foundation to the end of 1980

The Television History Book Michele Hilmes, Jason Jacobs, 2021-03-11 Traces the history of broadcasting and the influence developments in broadcasting have had over our social cultural and economic practices Examining the broadcasting traditions of the UK and USA The Television History Book make connections between events and tendencies that both unite and differentiate these national broadcasting traditions

Raymond Williams on Television Raymond Williams, 1989 Raymond Williams's personal sociological critique of television is presented here through reprinting articles written in The Listener between 1968 and 1972

The History of BBC Broadcasting in Scotland, 1923-1983 W. H. McDowell, 1992 The British Broadcasting Corporation has always been at the forefront of radio and television programme making and its regional organisation has been the inspiration for many independent stations throughout the world In this the first detailed history of BBC broadcasting in Scotland Bill McDowell provides a comprehensive study of the corporation's development in one of the oldest and most autonomous of its regional centres. He traces its growth from the first local radio station in the 1920s right through until the early 1980s when the BBC provided two network TV channels with Scottish opt-out programmes, a national radio channel and numerous area and community radio stations and network radio services. Packed with statistical information and based on extensive original research, this is the standard history for all media and communication studies courses and arts and media organisations.

Catalogue of the Book Library of the British Film Institute, London, England: Subject catalogue. Alphabetical subject index British Film Institute. Library, 1975. National Union Catalog, 1973. The National Union Catalogs, 1963-, 1964. Vision on John Wyver, 2007. Vision On narrates the turbulent yet distinguished history of one of the fundamental pillars of British broadcasting: the arts. This volume chronicles the years of dynamic and often controversial collaboration between broadcasters and the Arts Council, a key player in bringing art films to the wider public audience. Beginning with the earliest TV documentaries, the arts became central to the remit of public broadcasters and by the 1980s Channel 4 and the Arts Council were boldly redefining the relationship of the arts and the media by commissioning and airing exclusive and innovative films. With detailed discussion of the cultural role of television programmes such as Civilisation 1966 and Arena 1974 onwards, close analysis of over 25 films and exclusive access to the Arts Council's collection of the 450 films supported between 1953 and 1999, this volume illuminates the vanguard role the arts have played in the proud history of British public broadcasting and attempts to locate the place of arts broadcasting in today's multi-channel, multi-media world. Annotated Bibliography of New Publications in the Performing Arts, 1973.
