Slaughter, 2002-11-01 In this book Richard Slaughter draws on the relatively new but rapidly developing field of futures studies to illustrate how our thinking must change in order to deal with the challenges presented by the new millennium In doing so he brings together the latest work from some of the leading international names in futures thinking Part One considers the foundations of futures thinking in history literature and ideas Part Two explores some of the ways that futures studies have been and are being applied in different educational contexts around the world from pre school to postgraduate levels Part Three takes the crucial step from institutional learning to social learning and explores how futures provides us with insights which can help guide our society into the new millennium together with suggestions for the development of the field itself This book is essential reading for teachers students and anyone interested in the perils and promise of the twenty first century Becoming a Critical Thinker Robert Todd Carroll, 2000 For one semester courses in Introduction to Logic and introductory courses in Critical Thinking Becoming a Critical Thinker A Guide for the New Millennium provides a clear and useful set of tools for evaluating the probability of claims presented to students in their daily lives In this new millennium as the power and influence of the mass media continues to grow students need to develop both fundamental critical thinking skills as well as specific skills that focus on the issues and obstacles particular to our times Thus much of this text aims at honing skills useful for separating the probable from the improbable in the daily barrage of claims hurled at students from newspapers magazines television movies radios CDs and the Internet Connecting Leadership to the Brain Michael H. intelligence In essence it is a framework for aligning leadership behavior to the advancement of collective capacity of individuals in the organization to think learn and achieve purpose This framework is motivated by three assumptions a new day requires new perspective a framework for reflection facilitates perceptual shift there is no universal prescription for leadership

Learning Peace Betty A. Reardon, Eva Nordland, Robert William Zuber, 1994-04-12 The most striking feature of this book is the fact that a group of highly qualified scholars and educators collaborated before the dissolution of the Soviet Union exchanging ideas and practical programs for teaching ecological and cooperative education They modeled the process they advocate They changed their own thinking to understand the thinking of others They couched their concerns in a framework of human rights political and social responsibility and practical transformations of national educational approaches that are often myopic and competitive While accenting some positive educational trends within their national borders they also criticized cultural and educational limitations Anne Shepard Associate Superintendent of Schools Catholic Diocese of Kansas City St Joseph Missouri

Dialogue as a Collective Means of Design Conversation Patrick M. Jenlink, Bela H. Banathy, 2007-11-24 Dialogue as a Collective Means of Design Conversation is the second volume edited by Patrick M Jenlink and Bela H Banathy to offer a cross disciplinary approach to examining dialogue as a communicative medium In this Compendium the contributing authors set forth their ideas experiences and perspectives as the path of a learning journey a journey of new meaning of new understanding and of becoming self aware of design conversation as future creating and consciousness evolving In particular this volume comes at a time when we as a global society are faced with the question of how we shape our actions and in turn shape our future through conversation that is focused on resolving global conflict and fostering world peace The volume evokes in the reader a realization that our greatest potential rests in no small measure with our collective capacity for cultural creativity and in our capacity to achieve new levels of consciousness through dialogue and design conversation

New Thinking for a New Millennium William James Williams, 1999 A book discussing how the world of tomorrow will be different from the world of today The Futurist, 2000 Black Earth, Red Star R. Craig Nation, 1992 Although it once issued a radical challenge that shook the existing world order the USSR was soon thrown back to seek security within its own confines. Black Earth Red Star vividly chronicles the Soviet experience from Lenin's 1917 revolution to the disintegration of the union in December 1991. R. Craig Nation provides the first post Cold War history of the Soviets' seventy-four year struggle to maintain an effective national security policy in a hostile world without altogether abandoning the commitment to their original internationalist ideals. Drawing on an unprecedented body of primary and secondary sources, Nation presents a nuanced overview of Soviet history from the triumph of the Bolshevik revolution to the emergence of Stalin, the shattering victory over Hitler, Khrushchev's frustrated efforts at reform during the Cold War, the degeneration of Soviet power under Brezhnev, and the convulsive changes since 1985. Shaped by a dynamic conflict between often contradictory aims, the promotion of Communist internationalism and the defense of national self-interest, Soviet security policy was far from static. He shows Nation reconstructs the military, political, and economic strategies behind the succession of security policies with which the Kremlin responded to the rapid changes in the international environment and in Soviet society itself. While the red star that shines above the Kremlin no longer symbolizes a commitment to world revolution, the rich black earth of the Slavic east remains of lasting importance in international affairs. This book will be essential reading for anyone concerned with the future of the former Soviet republics, including historians of the USSR and political scientists working in international relations and security studies.
