Joan Miró

Miro On Mallorca:

Miró on Mallorca Barbara Catoir, Joan Miró, 1995 From his childhood on Mallorca was to be a second home for Joan Miró. His mother hailed from the island as did his wife Pilar Juncosa. It became his permanent place of abode from the mid-fifties onwards after he acquired a plot of land upon which he commissioned his friend Josep Lluris to build a large studio. He died there on the 25th of December 1983 at the age of 90. This study concerns itself primarily with the varied themes and techniques of the artist's later works painting, sculpture, prints and ceramics which were all created with the exception of the latter in the four workshops of his residence Son Abrines. It was the clear light of Mallorca which especially fascinated Miró, the poetic blues of the sky and sea. In his sculpture he was especially inspired by the artistic creativity of the island inhabitants not to mention the agriculture and precipitous cliffs which give the landscape of Mallorca its unique quality. A pitchfork, a fork that has been carefully made by peasants that is very important to me, he once commented. From his youth on he was to collect objects typical of island life, ceramics, woven baskets and simple household pottery. Above all he loved the rustic style of the old Mallorcan house with its characteristic furniture. Such things were to influence his art more than any fluctuating fashions. Folk art always moves me. In this art there are no tricks, it is so rich with possibilities. Barbara Catoir is the author of Conversations with Antoni Tàpies. Miró was born in Barcelona in 1893 and studied there at the Lonja School of Fine Arts from 1912 onwards and in the private school of Francesc Gall. Miró lived on and off in Paris from 1920 to the outbreak of World War II, where he became friends with poets and artists within Surrealist and Dadaist circles. He exhibited alongside Picasso, Gonzales and Alexander Calder in the Spanish Pavilion of the World Exhibition in Paris during 1937. With the first major exhibition of his oeuvre at the Museum of Modern Art in New York in 1941, Miró was to see the blossoming of a fruitful relationship with the American art scene which was to last until his death. Numerous works of his are to be found in American museums and private collections.

Joan Miró: 1942-1955 Jacques Dupin, Joan Miró, 1999 Joan Miró Jacques Dupin, Joan Miró, 2009 Considered one of the great artist of the 20th century Joan Miro has bequeathed us a definitive body of work whose influence has continued to grow over the years. Miro did not paint dreams but instead through his works provided the spectator with certain elements so that he would be the one that dreamed. He never worked under the influence of hypnosis drugs or alcohol. Nevertheless his artistic personality and the way he represented on canvas what inspiration dictated to him led Andr Breton to exclaim Miro is the most surrealist of us all. A creative force in the plastic field who felt an equal passion for the word for the most daring poetic plays a lover of objects and the bare truth of materials. Miro always revealed himself as an oneiric artist a seeeker after the constellations that inspired some of his finest works. Jacques Dupin the main authority in Miro work details all those items in his amazing essay The Birth of Signs 72 illustrations
