Contribution to the Archaeology of Power Stephen Connelly,2021-01-05 Connelly demonstrates how Leibniz s rearticulation of power and its associated concepts is motivated at least in part by the struggles that marked the terrain in which his ideas were rooted the struggle between Reformed and Scholastic theology between natural law and natural right and between mechanistic natural philosophy and human freedom He locates Leibniz within power s wider evolution and shows how the universal jurisprudence which Leibniz developed between the 1660s and 1690s can be considered as a transformative encounter between power activity and modality Drawing on thinkers as diverse as Aristotle Aquinas Duns Scotus Grotius Husserl and Deleuze Connelly traces Leibniz s conceptualisation of power through its applications in his legal texts revealing that Leibniz in fact reconceptualises power under a new name the state space The move amounts to an internalisation of power as a moral world within each individual submitting each practical agent to a universal set of obligations and prohibitions defined by that world What though is at stake in bringing the objective world within each individual and submitting it to a public legal order And what is the significance of this surgical intervention for any archaeology of power Freedom, Nature, and World Peter Loftson,2008-01-31 Freedom Nature and World is a collection of essays by Peter Loftson which examine issues posed by a broadly naturalistic view of the world which Loftson defends while also exploring some of the challenges it confronts Papers on freedom Kant Christianity Homer the history of analytic philosophy the place of humanity in nature and other topics are brought together within a synoptically naturalistic purview All the essays rest on and in some cases extend that synoptic perspective which seeks to encompass both a scientific understanding of humankind in the natural world and the complexities of free rational agency within our cultural and historical settings Published in English Keratoconus Mehrdad Mohammadpour,Masoud Khorrami- Nejad,2024-10-24
