Joseph Sommers, Tomás Ybarra-Frausto, 1979 Heirs to a cultural literacy rich in Mexican and American influences modern Chicano writers combine an urgent sense of social protest with a vibrant literary style Containing contributions from both recognized scholars such as Am rico Paredes Luis Leal and Felipe Ortego and younger critics including Yvonne Yabro Bejarano Ralph Grajeda and Marta S nchez Modern Chicano writers affirms the dynamic blending of continuity and change that characterizes the modern Chicano writer Beginning with a series of five framing articles the editors establish the literary history folk culture critical theory and sociolinguistics surrounding the Chicano people Other critiques examine the narrative techniques of Tom s Rivera and his opposing themes of resignation and rebellion the poet Alurista and his use of traditional mythology to convey contemporary social concerns and the relationof popular art to the Chicano struggle for cultural identity in El Teatro Campesino This volume presents a unique collection of critical commentaries that explore the development and future direction of modern Chicano literature Chicano Identity in Chicano Fiction Markus Widmer, 2003-06-30 Seminar paper from the year 1998 in the subject American Studies Literature grade 2 B University of Aberdeen English Department course Chicano Fiction language English abstract In this essay I will address the question of Chicano identity by investigating two very different texts that both deal with a quest for identity in a Mexican American context Tom s Rivera s And the Earth Did Not Devour Him and Richard Rodriguez Hunger for Memory The Education of Richard Rodriguez I will first discuss the contextual differences between the two works Then I will consider the definitions of identity upon which the texts are based Going deeper into the works themselves I will finally discuss along which lines the two quests for identity develop In conclusion I will connect my investigations to the question of whether Chicano identity is unified or fragmented Both Tom s

Rivera's And the Earth Did Not Devour Him and Richard Rodriguez's Hunger for Memory are about an individual searching for his identity. In both works the protagonist is a Mexican American or Chicano. However, the differences between the two books are huge. The generic difference is most obvious: Rivera's work is a fictional narrative which Hector Calderón termed novel as tales. Rodríguez, referring to his book, speaks of essays impersonating an autobiography. This entails that the subject searching for identity is in Rodríguez's case the author himself or rather his literary image. In Rivera's case the subject is purely fictional, although some critics have identified this literary subject with the author.

Understanding Chicano Literature Carl R. Shirley, Paula W. Shirley, 1988      Contemporary Chicano Fiction Vernon E. Lattin, 1986 This work provides the most comprehensive critical coverage of Chicano fiction to date. The papers in this volume cover all the major figures in Chicano fiction of the 1960s and 1970s as well as the theory of the Chicano novel, New Mexican narratives and the urban experience in Chicano fiction. Ernestina N. Eger has produced an extensive bibliography of criticism on Chicano fiction, an outstanding scholarly contribution.

Understanding Contemporary Chicana Literature Deborah L. Madsen, 2000 Exploring the work of six notable authors, this text reveals characteristic themes, images and stylistic devices that make contemporary Chicana writing a vibrant and innovative part of a burgeoning Latina creativity.

Chicano Renaissance David R. Maciel, Isidro D. Ortiz, María Herrera-Sobek, 2022-08-23 Among the lasting legacies of the Chicano Movement is the cultural flowering that it inspired, one that has steadily grown from the 1960s to the present. It encompassed all of the arts and continues to earn acclaim both nationally and internationally. Although this Chicano artistic renaissance received extensive scholarly attention in its initial phase, the post-Movimiento years after the late 1970s have been largely overlooked. This book meets that need, demonstrating that despite the changes that have taken place in all areas of Chicana arts, a commitment to community revitalization continues to underlie artistic expression. This collection examines changes across a broad range of cultural forms: art, literature, music, cinema and television, radio and theater, with an emphasis on the last two decades. Original articles by both established and emerging scholars review such subjects as the growth of Tejano music and the rise of Selena; how films and television have affected the Chicana experience; the evolution of Chicana art over the last twenty years; and postmodern literary trends. In all of the essays, the contributors emphasize that, contrary to the popular notion that Chicanas/os have succumbed to a victim mentality, they continue to actively struggle to shape the conditions of their lives and to influence the direction of American society through their arts and social struggle. Despite decades usually associated with self-interest in the larger society, the spirit of commitment and empowerment has continued to infuse Chicana/o cultural expression and points toward a vibrant future.
