Modern Movements In Architecture :

Modern Movements in Architecture Charles Jencks,1985 See Camp and Johnson Philip in index Modern Movements in Architecture Charles Jencks,1985 Modern Movements in Architecture ,1985 History of Modern Architecture Leonardo Benevolo,1977 The Story of Post-Modernism Charles Jencks,2012-05-25 In The Story of Post Modernism Charles Jencks the authority on Post Modern architecture and culture provides the defining account of Post Modern architecture from its earliest roots in the early 60s to the present day By breaking the narrative into seven distinct chapters which are both chronological and overlapping Jencks charts the ebb and flow of the movement the peaks and troughs of different ideas and themes The book is highly visual As well as providing a chronological account of the movement each chapter also has a special feature on the major works of a given period The first up to date narrative of Post Modern Architecture other major books on the subject were written 20 years ago An accessible narrative that will appeal to students who are new to the subject as well as those who can remember its heyday in the 70s and 80s History of Modern Architecture Leonardo Benevolo,1977 A serious and original study of the beginnings and development of modernism in which the pictorial aspects are designed to aid in the communication of the author s closely reasoned formulations Let it be said at once that the format of this work is richly handsome it is a two volume boxed set comprising 844 pages and well over 1 000 high quality illustrations and it reflects throughout its publisher s conviction that good design is an essential not superficial part of bookmaking Beyond that it should be emphasized that this work is not another facile cultural tour of modern architecture It is a serious and original study of the beginnings and development of modernism in which the pictorial aspects are designed to aid in the communication of the author s closely reasoned formulations rather than to gloss over a lack of substantive content The book is a translation of the third Italian edition published in 1966 Benevolo who is on the faculty of architecture in Venice has earned an international reputation as a historian of architecture and town planning and his publications embrace the span of time from the Renaissance to the foreseeable future One such publication The Origins of Modern Town Planning The MIT Press 1967 may be read as a prelude to the present work as well as an independent contribution Perhaps more than any other architectural historian in our time Benevolo has made a determined effort to place developments in design and planning in their proper social and political settings Indeed the author argues that the development of the modern movement in architecture was determined not by aesthetic formalisms but largely by the social changes that have occurred since about 1760 After the middle of the eighteenth century without the continuity of formal activity being in any way broken indeed while architectural language seems to be acquiring a particular coherence the relations between architect and society began to change radically New material and spiritual needs new ideas and modes of procedure arise both within and beyond the traditional limits and finally they run together to form a new architectural synthesis that is completely different from the old one In this way it is possible to explain the birth of modern architecture which otherwise would seem completely incomprehensible This second volume is concerned with the modern movement proper from 1914 to 1966 The author emphasizes the unity of the movement rejecting the usual treatment that allots to the individual architects separate and unconnected biographical accounts Benevolo remarks at one point When one talks about modern architecture one must bear in mind the fact that it implies not only a new range of forms but also a new way of thinking whose consequences have not yet all been calculated His main concern is to provide a more exact calculation of those consequences

The Other Modern Movement Kenneth Frampton, 2022-01-25 A revealing new look at modernist architecture emphasizing its diversity complexity and broad inventiveness Usually associated with Mies and Le Corbusier the Modern Movement was instrumental in advancing new technologies of construction in architecture including the use of glass steel and reinforced concrete Renowned historian Kenneth Frampton offers a bold look at this crucial period focusing on architects less commonly associated with the movement in order to reveal the breadth and complexity of architectural modernism The Other Modern Movement profiles nineteen architects each of whom consciously contributed to the evolution of a new architectural typology through a key work realized between 1922 and 1962 Frampton's account offers new insights into iconic buildings like Eileen Gray's E 1027 House in France and Richard Neutra's Kaufmann House in Palm Springs California as well as lesser known works such as Antonin Raymond's Tokyo Golf Club and Alejandro de la Sota's Maravillas School Gymnasium in Madrid Foregrounding the ways that these diverse projects employed progressive models advanced new methods in construction techniques and displayed a new sociocultural awareness Frampton shines a light on the rich legacy of the Modern Movement and the enduring potential of the unfinished modernist project
