Newfoundland Character:

The Geographical Imagination of Annie Proulx Alex Hunt, 2010-11-23 This edited collection focuses on Annie Proulx's striking attention to geography place landscape and local environments Contributors consider Proulx's particular landscapes—particularly those of Wyoming New England Texas and Newfoundland—and the issues surrounding the significance of these regions and regionalism in contemporary culture and literature

Migration and Education in a Multicultural World U. Kelly, 2009-02-16 Arising from the legacies of the twentieth century unprecedented worldwide migration unrelenting global conflict and warring unchecked materialist consumption and unconscionable environmental degradation are important questions about the toll of loss such changes exact individually and collectively As large scale and ubiquitous as these changes are their deep specificity re inscribes the importance of place as a critical construct Attending to such specificity emphasizes the interconnections between contexts and broader movements and remains a prudent route to articulating critical interconnections among places and peoples in complex times This book of essays turns to such specificity as a means to examine the inflections of migration on identity displacement disorientation loss and difference as sites of both regression and possibility Fusing autobiography and cultural analysis it provides a framework for a critical education attuned to such concerns

Global Movements Olaf Kuhlke, Adam M. Pine, 2014-12-18 Global Movements Dance Place and Hybridity provides a theoretical and practical examination of the relationships between the global mobility of ideas and people and its impact on dance and space Using seven case studies the contributors illustrate the mixture of dance styles that result from the global diffusion of cultural traditions and practices The collection portrays a multitude of ways in which public and private spaces stages buildings town squares as well as natural environments are transformed and made meaningful by culturally diverse dances Global Movements will be of interest to scholars of geography dance and global issues

National Plots Andrea Cabajsky, Brett Josef Grubisic, 2010-07-09 Fiction that reconsiders challenges reshapes and or upholds national narratives of history has long been an integral aspect of Canadian literature Works by writers of historical fiction from early practitioners such as John Richardson to contemporary figures such as Alice Munro and George Elliott Clarke propose new views and understandings of Canadian history and individual relationships to it Critical evaluation of these works sheds light on the complexity of these depictions The contributors in National Plots Historical Fiction and Changing Ideas of Canada critically examine texts with subject matter ranging from George Vancouver's west coast explorations to the eradication of the Beothuk in Newfoundland Reflecting diverse methodologies and theoretical approaches the essays seek to explicate depictions of the historical in individual texts and to explore larger questions relating to historical fiction as a genre with complex and divergent political motivations and goals Although the topics of the essays vary widely as a whole the collection raises and answers questions about the significance of the roles historical fiction has played within Canadian culture for nearly two centuries
