Linking the economics of water, energy, and food: A nexus modeling approach Al-Riffai, Perrihan, Breisinger, Clemens, Mondal, Md. Hossain Alam, Ringler, Claudia, Wiebelt, Manfred, Zhu, Tingju, 2017-04-28 We use an innovative methodology to model the socioeconomic linkages between water energy and food in the East Nile Basin Based upon a theoretical nexus framework the methodology is expanded into a quantifiable modeling suite that underlies the analysis of each of three country case studies The advantages are that despite resource shortages being a challenge the modeling suite aids in devising policies and strategies that formulate these sectoral interdependencies and provide the evidence based research results necessary for their design in a way that exploits synergies existing across sectors countries and regions Al Zubari and This paper lays out the methodology and gives an example of an application and scenarios by focusing on three countries in the East Nile Basin This methodology paper will be followed by three individual country case studies that highlight the water energy and food nexus for each Frontiers in Water-Energy-Nexus—Nature-Based Solutions, Advanced Technologies and Best Practices for Environmental Sustainability Vincenzo Naddeo, Malini Balakrishnan, Kwang-Ho Choo, 2019-09-18 This volume includes selected contributions presented during the 2nd edition of the international conference on WaterEnergyNEXUS which was held in Salerno Italy in November 2018 This conference was organized by the Sanitary Environmental Engineering Division SEED of the University of Salerno Italy in cooperation with Advanced Institute of Water Industry at Kyungpook National University Korea and with The Energy and Resources Institute TERI India The initiative received the patronage of UNESCO World Water Association Programme WWAP and of the International Water Association IWA and was organized with the support of Springer MENA Publishing Program Arab Water Council AWC Korean Society of Environmental Engineering KSEE and Italian Society of Sanitary Environmental Engineering Professors GITISA With the support of international experts invited as plenary and keynote speakers the conference aimed to give a platform for Euro Mediterranean countries to share and discuss key topics on such water energy issues through the presentation of nature based solutions advanced technologies and best practices for a more sustainable environment This volume gives a general and brief overview on current research focusing on emerging Water Energy Nexus issues and challenges and its potential applications to a variety of environmental problems that are impacting the Euro Mediterranean zone and surrounding regions A selection of novel and alternative solutions applied worldwide are included The volume contains over about one hundred carefully refereed contributions from 44 countries worldwide selected for the conference Topics covered include 1 Nexus framework and governance 2 Environmental solutions for the sustainable development of the water sector 3 future clean energy technologies and systems under water constraints 4 environmental engineering and management 5 Implementation and best practices Intended for researchers in environmental engineering environmental science chemistry and civil engineering This volume is also an invaluable guide for industry professionals working in both water and energy sectors The Security-development Nexus Lars Buur, Steffen Jensen, Finn Stepputat, 2007 The link between security and development has been rediscovered after 9/11 by a broad range of scholars. Focusing on Southern Africa the Security Development Nexus shows that the much debated linkage is by no means a recent invention. Rather the security development linkage has been an important element of the state policies of colonial as well as post-colonial regimes during the Cold War and it seems to be prospering in new configurations under the present wave of democratic transitions. Contributors focus on a variety of contexts from South Africa, Mozambique and Namibia to Zimbabwe and Democratic Congo. They explore the nexus and our understanding of security and development through the prism of peace keeping interventions, community policing, human rights, gender, land contests, squatters, nation and state building, social movements, DDR programmes and the different trajectories democratization has taken in different parts of the region. Annual Book 2004 Markaz al-Imārāt lil-Dirāsāt wa-al-Buhūth al-Istirātīyah, 2004

The Natural History of Sydney Daniel Lunney, Pat Hutchings, Dieter Hochuli, 2009-09-01 On 3 November 2007 the Royal Zoological Society of NSW held its annual forum with the topic being The natural history of Sydney. It has remained as the title of this book. The program contained the following introduction as the theme of the forum and it has remained as the theme for this book. Sydney has a unique natural history providing a home for iconic animals and plants while remaining a global city. It captured the imagination of prominent naturalists and inspired visits and collecting trips to the infant colony of New South Wales in the late 1790s and early to late 1800s. From these collections flowed great descriptive works detailing the new and unusual animals and plants of the antipodes. Gould, Owen, Huxley, Peron, Banks and many others recounted new and evocative flora and fauna. Many collecting trips for the great museums and institutions in Europe began in Sydney. Sydney still continues to engage naturalists and those grappling with the current drama of climate change and conservation. The Royal Zoological Society of New South Wales, founded in Sydney in 1879, is a product of the grand 19th century tradition of natural history with a particular emphasis on animal life. Sydney is also home to some of Australia's oldest and finest institutions such as the Australian Museum, the University of Sydney and the Royal Botanic Gardens. Throughout Sydney there are places where the natural habitat has not been supplanted by urban growth and the interest in Sydney's endemic flora and fauna remains strong. This forum draws on a magnificent interdisciplinary vision while continuing to employ all the modern tools in the investigation and communication of Sydney's natural history. It reflects a resurgence in local history and pursues the natural history of our harbour side city in a modern framework. The day of the forum was a captivating display of the diversity of the fauna of Sydney, both native and introduced, and its varied habitats and of the diverse ways of appreciating natural history including the history of natural history. Also on display was the depth of scholarship lying behind each of the presentations. The subject clearly has a profound hold on many professional biologists, historians and those keen to conserve their local area but, if the day is any guide, there are vastly more people living in or visiting Sydney who have more than a passing interest in this topic. The subject matter ranged from the history of institutions engaged in natural history through animal groups as diverse as reptiles and cicadas to ideas on how to see Sydney as a natural setting Other papers dealt with the use by Aboriginal people of the native biota in terms of fishing and being displayed in rock paintings before the arrival of the colonists There is little doubt that this theme could run to 10 volumes not just this one but the diversity of ideas skills and organisms displayed in this one book will serve as a guide to what lies beyond these pages A considerable effort was made by each author to present their material as both interesting and accurate The material is built on lifetimes of sustained effort to study record and communicate findings and ideas It is also built on the lifetime work of our predecessors who laboured to find and record the natural history of Sydney We are indebted to their efforts This book records not only the outcome of a successful day of presentations but more importantly the lifelong scholarship of those authors in each of the specialist fields Not only have the authors been absorbed by documenting the biodiversity they have included studies or intelligent speculation on the factors which have impacted on this diversity since Cook sailed along the NSW coast in 1770 The Macquarie Dictionary e g the revised third edition defines natural history as the science or study dealing with all objects in nature and the aggregate of knowledge connected with such knowledge This makes natural history of wide interest to the entire community of Sydney both residents and visitors However we have specialised to the extent that we have focused principally on fauna the RZS being a zoological society Nevertheless plant communities are recognised as part and parcel of the natural history of Sydney as is a sense of the geography of the city with its magnificent harbour sandstone backdrop and spectacular national parks surrounding the city Also of great importance is how others in the past have seen the natural history of what is now called Sydney All these ideas are captured in this book One of the strengths of being a naturalist i e one who is versed in or devoted to natural history especially a zoologist or botanist Macquarie Dictionary is the opportunity to look across the individual disciplines be it a specialist in birds mammals or polychaetes a taxonomist or an ecologist or writer Their advantage is the ability to see the richness of a place such as Sydney Consequently most botanists and zoologists have one or two highly specialised skills but a keen interest in the broader picture and can thus appreciate the importance of for example cave art or fish diversity in the harbour and recognise that the vertebrate fauna of Sydney has changed over the 222 years since European settlement and no doubt the invertebrate fauna has changed although it is less easily assessed Our aim in this book is to draw attention to the natural history of Sydney for scholars as well as those who have the task of looking after a particular area such as within a local government area or a particular taxon such as reptiles or fish and those who have the opportunity to conserve areas taxa or institutions through their employment or legislative responsibilities It is also for teachers and lecturers colleagues in other cities and towns in Australia and those with a keen interest in managing our urban wildlife our cultural heritage or promoting the profound value of our natural heritage within a city landscape It also displays the importance of museum and herbarium collections in documenting the changes since 1770

Human Security in Disease and Disaster Natasha Lindstaedt, 2021-09-19 This timely new textbook lays bare the ways in which disease and disaster can turn politicians into global leaders or national liabilities. It explains the impact of crises on development and human security and explores how states and societies can respond more effectively. Written primarily for the student of politics but also drawing from public health public policy and environmental studies the book investigates the threats posed by disease and disasters and demonstrates how states can shape the ways in which these crises unfold. Case studies include Diseases such as Covid 19 and Ebola Natural disasters such as Typhoon Haiyan and the 2010 Haiti earthquake Manmade disasters such as the Yemen and Congo civil wars or famine. The book delves deep into how state response to these challenges can impact political and economic stability and ends by exploring the role played by international institutions and international cooperation in addressing common challenges. This introductory textbook is perfect for undergraduate and masters courses exploring the expanding politics and human security issues surrounding disease and disasters. It will also be of interest to think tanks and policy communities looking for fresh insights to bring into professional practice

Heavy Metal Contamination in Wastewater and Its Bioremediation by Microbial-Based Approaches Veer Singh, Vishal Mishra, Sachchida Nand Rai, Maulin P. Shah, 2025-10-09 This book covers various aspects of heavy metal contamination in wastewater and its removal by microbial based approaches. The heavy metal contamination in water is generally caused due to natural and anthropogenic activities. There are many industrial processes responsible for such a contamination for example leather tanning coal washeries agriculture activities chrome plating and paint industries. The industrial effluent directly or indirectly discharges into water sources and heavy metal containing wastewater decreases the quality of surface water and groundwater. The heavy metal contamination causes various types of health issues in human and other living organisms including kidney and liver damage heart failure mental retardation cancers and skin and gastric problems. The high level of heavy metal concentration in the cell generates reactive oxygen species ROS which may cause damage to cell organelles Due to their high toxicity there is an urgent need to develop effective heavy metal removal method for wastewater treatment There are several conventional methods available for the removal of heavy metal ions from contaminated sites These methods have some disadvantages such as the generation of secondary toxic sludge and high operation cost Hence it is required to develop cost effective and eco friendly methods for decontamination Microorganisms have tendency to accumulate heavy metal ions into their intracellular space and can grow in various high stress environments and microbial based methods are considered as eco friendly and cost effective Moreover the integrated approach of wastewater treatment and utilization of microbial biomass for bioenergy production can be beneficial in terms of heavy metal bioremediation and zero waste generation This book focuses on the heavy metal contamination their toxicity and microbial methods for the removal of heavy metal ions from contaminated sites

water management philosophy Humans take more than their geological share of water but they do not benefit from it equally This imbalance has created an era of intense water scarcity that affects the security of individuals states and the global economy For many this brazen water grab and the social inequalities it produces reflect the lack of a coherent philosophy connecting people to the planet Challenging this view Jeremy Schmidt shows how water was made a resource that linked geology politics and culture to American institutions Understanding the global spread and evolution of this philosophy is now key to addressing inequalities that exist on a geological scale Water Abundance Scarcity and Security in the Age of Humanity details the remarkable intellectual history of America s water management philosophy It shows how this philosophy shaped early twentieth century conservation in the United States influenced American international development programs and ultimately shaped programs of global governance that today connect water resources to the Earth system Schmidt demonstrates how the ways we think about water reflect specific public and societal values and illuminates the process by which the American approach to water management came to dominate the global conversation about water Debates over how human impacts on the planet are connected to a new geological epoch the Anthropocene tend to focus on either the social causes of environmental crises or scientific assessments of the Earth system Schmidt shows how when it comes to water the two are one and the same The very way we think about managing water resources validates putting ever more water to use for some human purposes at the expense of others
