Missionary Earthkeeping:

Missionary Earthkeeping Calvin B. DeWitt, Ghilleen T. Prance, 1992 This book originates from a paper by the same title presented by Ghilleen Prance at one of the annual Au Sable Forums at the Au Sable Institute of Environmental Studies. Missionaries were invited to come together to discuss their work; this volume is the result. The editors and the authors intend it as a source of encouragement and incentive to all who are working in the mission field to join biblical teachings on earthkeeping with ecological knowledge to bring Good News to the world. Good News that announces and honors God and Jesus Christ as Creator, sustainer, and reconciler of all things from the Preface.

Missionary Earthkeeping Calvin B. DeWitt, Ghilleen T. Prance, 1992

Earthkeeping in Missiological Perspective M. L. Daneel, 2000

Serving Jesus with Integrity Dwight P. Baker, Douglas Hayward, 2010-06-28

The word ethics carries an aura of countervailing views overlapping claims, uncertain footing, and seductive attractions. Some issues are as clear as the horizontal versus vertical axes in Sawai Chinnawong's striking painting Joseph and Potiphar's Wife that graces the cover of this book. At the same time, because we are involved, because our interests, our inclinations, our plans, and relationships are at stake, the issues that engage missionary practitioners can be frustratingly labyrinthine, curling endlessly back on themselves. Evangelical missionaries and mission agencies are concerned about personal morality, and rightly so. But as the chapters in this volume attest, evangelical mission's ethical engagement extends far beyond simply avoiding compromising sexual situations and not absconding with the finances. How should we talk about others' beliefs and practices to ourselves? To them? How should we represent ourselves to others? What role does tolerance for ambiguity play in missionaries' mental preparation? How should accountability be structured in intercultural partnerships? Are there ways to enable organizational justice to flourish in mission institutions? What might integrity in short-term mission outreach look like? How does care for creation relate to mission? What role can a code of ethics for missionary practice play? Limited and fallible and marred by the fall, we need both guidance and admonition and deep reflection on the conduct of evangelical mission such as is provided in this volume so that we may serve Jesus with true integrity.

Environmental Missions Lowell Bliss, 2013-10-16

Planting Churches and Trees. Environmental Missions defines an emerging category in missions, one that takes seriously both the mandate to evangelize the world and the responsibility of caring for God's good earth. Lowell Bliss was a traditional church planting missionary in India when his best Hindu friend there died of malaria. This was just one of the events that led him to reexamine the politically charged term "environment," understanding it now as simply that which surrounds those we love, those for whom Jesus died. In other words, the church is called to reach not only vulnerable people but the space in which they live and breathe. Pointing to the narrative of Scripture and the history of missions, Bliss shows us that the gospel of Jesus Christ is good news for the whole creation; that we must unite two traditionally separate endeavors to fulfill the entirety of God's commission; and that the challenge of the environmental crises of our day is also one of our greatest opportunities to reach the least reached with the love of Christ.

African Earthkeepers M. L. Daneel, 2001 Marthinus L Daneel profiles an African instituted interfaith earthkeeping mission that illustrates the transformation of the religious landscape now underway in the sub Saharan world Part One introduces the African initiated churches showing how their earthkeeping movement in Zimbabwe gives voice to African religious convictions as the people struggle with drought and moribund political structures In Part Two Daneel reflects theologically on the independent church movement helping the reader understand the meaning and challenge of these churches This book is the single best study of the African Independent Church movement available today African Earthkeepers: Interfaith mission in earth-care M. L. Daneel, 1998 Author Professor Inus Daneel grew up in Zimbabwe and has extensively researched the traditional and Christian religions of the Shona people Appalled at the environmental devastation caused by war Daneel initiated and became the driving force behind an unusual partnership in the war of the trees His intimate knowledge of traditional Shona culture and religion and the friendships he established with various Shona tribesmen enabled Daneel to share with traditional chiefs and spirit mediums traditionally custodians of the land the urgency of restoring the land Thus the partnership between Daneel the Christian missionary and academic and Shona traditionalist religious leaders began in a tree planting venture that overcame religious differences Daneel records the religio ecological motivation and endeavour of the African Earthkeeping Movement and its impact on Shona peasant society Where Garden Meets Wilderness E. Calvin Beisner, 1997 Finally he offers as a foundation for Christian environmental ethics a fresh and challenging exposition of the Biblical themes of garden and wilderness Religion Index Two, 1996 serves as a comprehensive introduction overview and in depth account of these exciting new developments The four volumes cover virtually every aspect of the field from theological change and institutional commitment to innovation in liturgy from new ecumenical connections among different religions and between religion science and environmental movements from religious participation in environmental politics to an account of the global social and political contexts in which religious environmentalism has unfolded
