Previous research on the topic has adopted a purely economic perspective focusing on macro issues such as price control and grain procurement. This book focuses instead on peasants the major participants in rural marketing activities. Illustrated by two comparative case studies with a diverse level of development from the Pearl River Delta one of the most prosperous regions in coastal China this book investigates the market hierarchy its change of functions and the interactions between peasants and market outlets. In doing so it shows how China's rural market district has changed since the Reform and how these changes affect the marketing activities of peasants.
