working class as their stories unfold in bankrupt state factories and global sweatshops in crowded dormitories and remote villages at heroic moments of street protests as well as in quiet disenchantment with the corrupt officialdom and the fledgling legal system China's Business Reforms Russell Smyth, On Kit Tam, Malcolm Warner, Cherrie Jiu-hua Zhu, 2004-11-10 China's recent economic reforms have led to impressive growth and an unprecedented enthusiasm for establishing foreign enterprises in China. Since 1993 China has been the second largest recipient of foreign direct investment in the world and is now considered to be the world's third biggest economy. Its greater economic integration with the rest of the world especially since its accession to the World Trade Organisation WTO has further accelerated its market oriented economic reforms. China is now opening its protected markets and beginning to submit to the rule of international law. This ongoing transition and increasing participation in the world economy has resulted in significant changes in human resource management and social welfare practices in China's enterprises. The book examines the key areas all of which are linked where China is grappling with institutional reforms as it opens up to the outside world: state owned enterprise reform, capital markets and financial reform, human resources and labour market reform, social welfare reform and China's accession to the WTO and the growth of the private sector.

World Development Indicators 2005, 2005-01-01. World Development Indicators was launched in 1978 to give a statistical snapshot of the progress being made on a range of economic and social development issues and the challenges remaining both at national level and aggregated globally. The 2005 edition of this annual publication includes over 80 tables and 800 indicators for 152 economies and 14 country groups together with basic indicators for a further 55 economies organised under six thematic headings including the progress made towards achieving the Millennium Development Goals. Indicators cover a wide range of topics including poverty and inequality, population and migration, gender issues, health and education, housing and urbanisation, environment and sustainable development, pollution, the economy and trade, business and investment conditions. An East Asian Renaissance Indermit Singh Gill, Homi J. Kharas, Deepak Bhattacharya, 2007. An East Asian Renaissance by a World Bank team led by Chief Economist for East Asia Pacific Dr Homi Kharas and Economic Adviser Dr Indermit Gill is the first comprehensive analysis of the new forces and challenges at play in the region since the Bank's seminal report of 1993, The East Asian Miracle. The report argues that regional flows of goods, finance and technology are helping even smaller East Asian countries reap the benefits of economies of scale and that this regional integration must be encouraged. But it also points out that these measures have to be supported by actions at the domestic level to ease the stresses and strains that rapid economic growth leaves in its wake. East Asia must now turn to the urgent domestic challenges of inequality, social cohesion, corruption and environmental degradation arising from its economic success.

Resources in Education, 1998. Gender, China and the World Trade Organization Günseli Berik, Xiao-yuan Dong, Gale

Summerfield,2013-09-13 China's joining the World Trade Organization at the end of 2001 signifies a milestone in the country's global integration after two decades of economic reforms that have fundamentally transformed the economic organization of China. This collection seeks to identify the gendered implications within China of the country's transition from socialism to a market economy and its opening up to international trade and investment. The changes have created greater wealth for some while at the same time serious gender, class, ethnic and regional disparities have also emerged. Drawing from historical, analytical and policy oriented work the essays in this collection explore women's well-being relative to men's in rural and urban China by looking at land rights, labor market status and labor rights, household decision making, health, the representation of women in advertising and beauty pageants. This book was previously published as a special issue of the journal Feminist Economics, the official journal of the International Association for Feminist Economics (IAFFE). All contributions have been subjected to the journal's rigorous peer review process and comply with the journal's editorial policies as overseen by the editor Diana Strassmann and the journal's editorial team including the associate editors, the editorial board, numerous volunteer reviewers and the journal's in-house editorial staff and freelance style editors. The special issue and book have been made possible by the generous financial support of Rice University and the Ford Foundation.
