The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors Nicole I. Caswell, Jackie Grutsch McKinney, Rebecca Jackson, 2016-10-03 The first book length empirical investigation of writing center directors labor The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors presents a longitudinal qualitative study of the individual professional lives of nine new directors Inspired by Kinkead and Harris's Writing Centers in Context 1993 the authors adopt a case study approach to examine the labor these directors performed and the varied motivations for their labor as well as the labor they ignored deferred or sidelined temporarily whether or not they wanted to The study shows directors engaged in various types of labor everyday disciplinary and emotional and reveals that labor is never restricted to a list of job responsibilities although those play a role Instead labor is motivated and shaped by complex and unique combinations of requirements expectations values perceived strengths interests and desires identities and knowledge The cases collectively distill how different institutions define writing and appropriate resources to writing instruction and support informing the ongoing wider cultural debates about skills writing and otherwise the preparation of educators the renewal tenuring of educators and administrative bloat in academe The nine new directors discuss more than just their labor they address their motivations their sense of self and their own thoughts about the work they do facets of writing center director labor that other types of research or scholarship have up to now left invisible The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors strikes a new path in scholarship on writing center administration and is essential reading for present and future writing center administrators and those who mentor them

Against Creative Writing

Andrew Cowan,2022-09-13 The rise of Creative Writing has been accompanied from the start by two questions can it be taught and should it be taught This scepticism is sometimes shared even by those who teach it who often find themselves split between two contradictory identities the artistic and the academic Against Creative Writing explores the difference between writing which is what writers do and Creative Writing which is the instrumentalisation of what writers do Beginning with the question of whether writing can or ought to be taught it looks in turn at the justifications for BA MA and PhD courses and concludes with the divided role of the writer who teaches It argues in favour of Creative Writing as a form of hands on literary education at undergraduate level and a form of literary apprenticeship at graduate level especially in widening access to new voices It argues against those forms of Creative Writing that lose sight of literary values as seen in the proliferation of curricular couplings with non literary subjects or the increasing emphasis on developing skills for future employment Against Creative Writing written by a writer is addressed to other writers inside or outside the academy at undergraduate or graduate level whether creative or critical
