Nianhua Shi History Of New Years Pictures:

Some Did it for Civilisation, Some Did it for Their Country Jane E. Elliott, 2002 This book marks a total departure from previous studies of the Boxer War It evaluates the way the war was perceived and portrayed at the time by the mass media As such the book offers insights to a wider audience than that of sinologists or Chinese historians The important distinction made by the author is between image makers and eyewitnesses Whole categories of powerful image makers both Chinese and foreign never saw anything of the Boxer War but were responsible for disseminating images of that war to millions of people in China and throughout the world

Comic empires Richard Scully, Andrekos Varnava, 2019-11-04 Comic empires is an innovative collection of new scholarly research exploring the relationship between imperialism and cartoons caricature and comic art

Selling Happiness Ellen Johnston Laing, 2004-08-31 From the early twentieth century until the Communist takeover in 1949 Shanghai commercial artists created thousands of colorful posters and black and white advertisements that formed an essential part of modern life in the city This visually appealing and richly illustrated work describes the origin and evolution of modern commercial art in China focusing on colorful advertisement calendar posters that featured distinctive feminine images It makes clear how essential commercial art and its institutional backing were to the development of modern art and even modern society in China over the past century Selling Happiness discusses not only advertising art but also the production and marketing of the calendar poster These posters like other advertisements were rendered in a Western realistic technique and were wildly and widely popular Ordinary people throughout China often acquired them to decorate their homes Laing outlines how the Chinese commercial artist who rarely attended formal Western art classes gained skills in Western representational art In the final chapter of the book she explains how the styles developed by the commercial poster artists during the 1920s and 1930s became the basis for certain types of propaganda art under the Chinese Communists in the 1950s and 1960s

□□□□□ : □□□□□□□ Monash Asia Institute, 1999 In their introduction the editors ask how contemporary Chinese men and women are reshaping constructions of gender roles in a time of dramatic social and economic transformation Some of the 13 essays focus directly on this question and all of them contribute to an understanding of its significance
