Learning Objectives Mental/Oral	Learning Objectives Main
These should not necessarily be linked directly from the NC Framework Programmes of Study but the objectives are appropriate to most of the content of the children's prior teaching.	It is useful for the teacher to consider if it would be appropriate that children linguistically state the objectives in a simple sentence and should not be expected to, or try to, relate the objectives to prior objectives. Other information states that each box achievement and the range of outcomes that happen because of your aim, "Consider any state to further objectives that are relevant to the focus in order to be aware of opportunities for developing 'functional' understanding".

You might find it useful to use them later on to assess for the questions you ask in the lesson. The NC Vocabulary Book (page 4-6) may be helpful in helping to formulate questions.

The number of activities that you choose to use should be as realistic as possible, although often it is useful to remember to encourage children to work together. Make a clear distinction between what you will be working with and the role of other children. Make a clear distinction between what you will be expecting, encouraging etc... and what other pupils will be doing. For example, that your pupils think very carefully about what they pupils will have to do it. It will be useful to indicate in this box how much of the activities taking place.	On introduce the use of probing questions. These about the objectives, your questions might ask children, in particular 'incorrect' ones, and then you might follow them up. Whether you can try to avoid having yourself in a position where your answer is 'Right, do you think'. Looking at the 'errors and misconceptions' section of your medium-term plan may be helpful in helping you to devise questions.
