Moons 2006 Calendar:

Calendars in Antiquity Sacha Stern, 2012-09-06 Calendars were at the heart of ancient culture and society and were far more than just technical time keeping devices Calendars in Antiquity offers a comprehensive study of the calendars of ancient Mesopotamia Egypt Persia Greece Rome Gaul and all other parts of the Mediterranean and the Near East from the origins up to and including Jewish and Christian calendars in late Antiquity In this volume Stern sheds light on the political context in which ancient calendars were designed and managed Set and controlled by political rulers calendars served as expressions of political power as mechanisms of social control and sometimes as assertions of political independence or even of sub culture and dissidence While ancient calendars varied widely they all shared a common history evolving on the whole from flexible lunar calendars to fixed solar schemes The Egyptian calendar played an important role in this process leading most notably to the institution of the Julian calendar in Rome the forerunner of our modern Gregorian calendar Stern argues that this common evolutionary trajectory was not the result of scientific or technical progress It was rather the result of major political and social changes that transformed the ancient world with the formation of the great Near Eastern empires and then the Hellenistic and Roman Empires from the first millennium BC to late Antiquity The institution of standard fixed calendars served the administrative needs of these great empires but also contributed to their cultural cohesion The Bestiary Elise Paschen, 2009. The third volume from Paschen pursues the likenesses between human beings and other sorts of beasts. Paschen watches domestic animals, visits zoos and backyards, and records the instincts that animate her as lover, mother, daughter, and citizen. Husband and wife share a wedded habitat; a mother breastfeeding her daughter would like to buzz into the orchid of your ear while a manatee looks to the poet like a mistaken mermaid on the brink of vanishing from sight. Paschen offers sonnets, villanelles, and even a ghazal in which butterflies in an exhibit invent a sky beneath the dome. Readers might remember not the moments of pure description but the difficult emotions Paschen describes in her poems about marital love, motherhood, and finally a daughter's grief. The urn with her father's ashes dominates one poem, and her mother's career as a ballet dancer takes over another. Mother when I was young, I watched you from the wings and saw the sweat. Paschen writes, saw your gasp for breath. I thought it was your last. If we are animals, Paschen suggests, we are the animals who look hard at one another, the animals who remember and who mourn. From Publisher's Weekly, January 2009.

Steele,2007 Dates form the backbone of written history But where do these dates come from Many different calendars were used in the ancient world Some of these calendars were based upon observations or calculations of regular astronomical phenomena such as the first sighting of the new moon crescent that defined the beginning of the month in many calendars while others incorporated schematic simplifications of these phenomena such as the 360 day year used in early Mesopotamian administrative practices in order to simplify accounting procedures Historians frequently use handbooks and tables for converting dates in ancient calendars into the familiar BC AD calendar that we use today But very few historians understand how these tables have come about or what assumptions have been made in their construction The seven papers in this volume provide an answer to the question what do we know about the operation of calendars in the ancient world and just as importantly how do we know it Topics covered include the ancient and modern history of the Egyptian 365 day calendar astronomical and administrative calendars in ancient Mesopotamia and the development of astronomical calendars in ancient Greece This book will be of interest to ancient historians historians of science astronomers who use early astronomical records and anyone with an interest in calendars and their development The Old Farmer's Almanac 2006 Club Store Edition Old Farmer's Almanac,2005-09 Presents astronomical data and sky sightings for the entire year New York Game & Fish ,2005 The Indian Astronomical Ephemeris ,2005 Talanta ,2008 The Lincoln Diocesan Church Calendar, Clergy List, and General Almanack, for the Counties of Lincoln and Nottingham, for the Year of Our Lord ...
