Moral Dimensions Of Academic Administration:

The Moral Dimensions of Academic Administration Rudolph H. Weingartner, 1999 Academic administration argues Rudolph Weingartner is different from administration or managing in business because of the special character of institutions of higher learning Colleges and universities are founded to serve certain purposes they are supported in various ways by governments and private individuals and as professional institutions they have students among others as clients to whom they owe education services in ways analogous to the obligations hospitals have to their patients In this book Weingartner argues that academic administration is not just another job of managing but a calling that importantly assists institutions to carry out their missions

Moral Dimensions of Academic Administration (Book Review). ,2002 The Ethical Challenges of Academic Administration Elaine E. Englehardt, Michael S. Pritchard, Kerry D. Romesburg, Brian Schrag, 2009-09-18 This book is an invitation to academic administrators at every level to engage in reflection on the ethical dimensions of their working lives Academics are very good at reflecting on the ethical issues in other professions but not so interested in reflecting on those in their own including those faced by faculty and administrators Yet it is a topic of great importance Academic institutions are value driven hence virtually every decision made by an academic administrator has an ethical component with implications for students faculty the institution and the broader community Despite this they receive little systematic preparation for this aspect of their professional lives when they take up administrative posts especially when compared to say medical or legal training Surprisingly little has been written about the ethical challenges that academic administrators are likely to face Most of the literature relating to academic administration focuses on leadership and draws heavily on management and social science theory The importance of focusing on ethical deliberation and decision making often goes unrecognized

The Ethical Dimensions of School Leadership P.T. Begley, Olof Johansson, 2006-04-11 Among the many significant features of this volume is the dedication to the late Don Willower Professor of Education at Pennsylvania State University It is significant in light of Willower's long record of major contributions to the empirical literature in Educational Administration and his mentorship of many students steeped in the tradition of the so called science of administration These include scholars like Wayne Hoy and Peter Cistone who readily acknowledge their personal and intellectual debt to Willower How is it then that Willower a colleague of the giants of Educational Administration in the 60s and 70s people such as Dan Griffiths Jack Culbertson and Roald Campbell to name just a few came to associate himself with this relatively upstart group of academics and practitioners interested in values of all things As an inheritor of the mantle thrown down by Getzels and Guba all those years ago it might seem strange to see Willower consorting with people who argue about the distinction between fact and value It is true of course that Willower majored in philosophy at the State University of New York at Buffalo as an undergraduate So the language and the ways of thinking among many of those interested in values and ethics were not all that foreign to him He could certainly hold his own in debate with his friend Chris

Hodgkinson the foremost philosopher of Educational Administration in the field today and a contributor to this volume

Educational Administration in a Pluralistic Society Colleen A. Capper, 1993-01-01 Examines recent educational initiatives aimed at addressing the needs of students and staff along what Capper terms the axis of oppression Each chapter reviews the role and representation of a marginalized group in the literature school reform organizational theory and behavior and the school as community In a concluding essay Capper proposes a multiparadigmatic approach to administration challenging policymakers and practitioners to take action to nurture empowerment in the schools and ultimately the society Paper edition unseen 19 95 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Dynamics of Educational Administration and Management Alice Ndu, 1997 Academic Ethics Robin Barrow, Patrick Keeney, 2006 This collection of papers focuses on issues in academic ethics and moves from consideration of the very idea of a university and what that entails via attempts to locate the major current concerns to particular issues relating to the University's relations with the corporate world the professor's role relations between student and teacher credentialing the demands of collegiality and plagiarism The Journal of Educational Administration, 1991 Ethical decision-making in academic administration Maria Rosario G. Catacutan, 2015 Research on the ethical decision making processes of school administrators has received increased attention in the educational leadership literature Roche 1999 Begley 201 Shapiro Norberg Langlois 2004 This is partly due to studies which provide evidence that school administrators are increasingly driven in their decision making processes by strategic motives rather than ethical considerations Strike Haller Kirby Paradise Campbell 1997 Several studies also highlight the emergence of new challenges in contemporary society that give rise to more complex ethical issues in the school environment Richmon 2003 Ryan 2003 Dempster Dempster De Boer Bray 2008 but research on the ethical dimensions of their work as administrators have not been explored in a few conceptual studies Weingartner 2000 Englehardt Pritchard Romesburg de Guzman de Guzman Hapan 2014 However no research has been done in the Philippine setting on the moral dimension of academic administration and specifically on the ethical decision making processes of college deans In order to address this gap this paper explored how Filipino academic deans structure their ethical decision making processes in solving ethical dilemmas that confront them in their work of academic administration Using the qualitative research design this study afforded the emergence of two research models i the Wheel of School Leaders Ethical Dilemmas and ii the Phases of Moral Sensitivity Practice The first model provides a description of the nature of the ethical dilemmas experienced by Filipino academic deans the critical incidents which trigger these dilemmas and the value conflicts which these deans experience as a consequence of these dilemmas The second model meanwhile depicts a set of moral sensitivity processes Filipino college deans engage in prior to making their decisions about moral dilemmas In addition this study also provided an analysis and description of the reasoning processes employed by these deans in solving ethical dilemmas using theoretical thematic analysis Using the ethical paradigms proposed in the works of Starratt 1991 and of Shapiro and Stefkovich 2005 as frameworks for the analysis this study described the ethical frameworks of care justice and profession as the dominant paradigms used by Filipino deans and their preference for adopting multiple ethical frameworks when making their decisions As novel research the empirical evidence afforded by this qualitative study advances existing literature on ethical decision making in educational management in the context of higher education At a practical level this study serves to provide a corpus of tacit knowledge on ethical decision making processes employed by a small group of academic administrators useful for aspiring and practicing Filipino deans Findings of this research could also serve as a knowledge base for crafting ethics courses that could be offered either as stand alone or integrated in educational management programs at the postgraduate level Further the real life experiences captured in this study could be used as a platform to develop meaningful and relevant case studies for teaching ethical concepts and principles in the Philippine context Lastly these findings can be expanded to explore the ethical decision making processes of a greater number and more diverse group of academic deans in the country using the mixed methods approach in research

Handbook of Research on Educational Administration Joseph Murphy, Karen Seashore Louis, 1999-04-26 Over the past ten years a variety of leadership theories and practices have both influenced and responded to widespread changes in education This volume examines the technical managerial and institutional dimensions of leadership and shows how they relate to changing views of teaching and learning to new forms of school organization and governance and to shifting trends in the social and community climate of schooling

Myths and Realities of Academic Administration Patricia Plante, Robert Caret, 1990-03 Do new administrators really experience a honeymoon period Is a confrontation with a hostile faculty a certainty With an eye toward the ideal but a foot planted firmly in reality this book views the crumbling of ten major myths about academic administration Over 125 executives from colleges of all types and sizes were polled and responded with their experiences of today s most prevalent misconceptions Myths explored and exploded include how administrators inherit untouchables yearn for the classroom equivocate and are torn by conflicting constituencies This volume with its candid comments ventures to transcend the silence surrounding the intimate concerns pressures ideals and realities of the chief executive position while effecting new debate and personal reflection
