More In Anger:

Anger Gary Chapman, 2008-09-01 We live in an angry society From road rage to workplace incidents to marital bickering out of control anger is all around us How can we handle our anger and help those we love with theirs How can we teach our children to deal with their anger And what about those long simmering feelings of anger toward people in our past What's the difference between bad and good anger Bestselling author and relationship expert Dr Gary Chapman offers helpful and sometimes surprising insights on why we get angry what we can do about it and how we can use anger for good I'd Like You More If You Were More like Me John Ortberg, 2017-10-03 I'd Like You More If You Were More like Me takes on one of life's most important questions How can I get closer to God and other people We were created for deep connections When people have deep connections says John Ortberg they win in life When they don't have deep connections they cannot win in life I'd Like You More if You Were More like Me offers help in overcoming one of the biggest obstacles to making deep connections the fact that we're so different Different from God and different from each other The good news is that connectedness is not based on similarity but on shared experiences When one person invites another to share an experience they're connected It can be sharing a beautiful sunset or a meal having a great conversation over cup of coffee going for walk or even teasing somebody And when we share those same experiences with God we get closer to him too God wants to connect with us so much that he sent his son to live as a human being God took on flesh and shared every human experience So we don't have to wonder what a close relationship with God looks like anymore An intimate relationship with God and other people doesn't have to be a cliché it can be a daily way of life The Psychology of Aggression Arnold H. Buss, 1961

Film and the American Presidency Jeff Menne, Christian B. Long, 2015-02-20 The contention of Film and the American Presidency is that over the twentieth century the cinema has been a silent partner in setting the parameters of what we might call the presidential imaginary This volume surveys the partnership in its longevity placing stress on especially iconic presidents such as Lincoln and FDR The contributions to this collection probe the rich interactions between these high institutions of culture and politics Hollywood and the presidency and argue that not only did Hollywood acting become an idiom for presidential style but that Hollywood early on understood its own identity through the presidency's peculiar mix of national epic and unified protagonist Additionally they contend that studios often made their films to sway political outcomes that the performance of presidential personae has been constrained by the kinds of bodies for so long white and male that have occupied the office such that presidential embodiment obscures the body politic and that Hollywood and the presidency may finally be nothing more than two privileged figures of media age power Sex and Gender Differences in Personal

Emmers-Sommer,Sandra Faulkner,1998-10-16 Challenging a commonly held assumption that men and women hail from different psychological and social planets this illuminating work reexamines what the empirical research really shows about how the sexes communicate in close relationships The volume demonstrates that stereotypical beliefs about men and women fail to predict their actual interaction behavior and highlights evidence of similarities as well as differences between the two groups Setting forth an integrative theory of gender differences the authors propose that communication behavior in different activities is the means by which sex and gender role expectations are created and sustained This volume is suitable for students scholars and researchers in communication social psychology marriage and family studies and gender studies as well as clinicians working with individuals couples and families
