Bringing together a variety of approaches including psychoanalysis historical and contemporary case study of cities urban geography film and literary critique the essays explore some of the unsettling mismatches between city and citizen in order to make sense of each and to gauge the wellbeing of city life more generally. Essays examine a number of cities including Edmonton London Paris Oxford Las Vegas Berlin and New York and address a range of issues including those of memory death anxiety alienation and identity. Delving into the complex repercussions of contemporary mass urban development The Urban Uncanny opens up the pathological side of cities both real and imaginary. This interdisciplinary collection provides unparalleled insights into the urban uncanny that will be of interest to academics and students of urban studies urban geography psychoanalysis cultural studies social studies and film studies and to anyone interested in the darker side of city life.

Victorian Fiction Beyond the Canon Daragh Downes, Trish Ferguson, 2016-12-15 This book is about selected Victorian texts and authors that in many cases have never before been subject to sustained scholarly attention. Taking inspiration from the pioneeringly capacious approach to the hidden hinterland of Victorian fiction adopted by scholars like John Sutherland and Franco Moretti this energetically revisionist volume takes advantage of recent large scale digitisation projects that allow unprecedented access to hitherto neglected literary texts and archives. Blending lively critical engagement with individual texts and close attention to often surprising trends in the production and reception of prose fiction across the Victorian era this book will be of use to anyone interested in re evaluating the received meta narratives of Victorian literary history. With an afterword by John Sutherland

God and the Folly of Faith Victor J. Stenger, 2012-04-03 A thorough and hard hitting critique that is a must read for anyone interested in the interaction between religion and science. It has become the prevalent view among sociologists historians and some theistic scientists that religion and science have never been in serious conflict. Some even claim that Christianity was responsible for the development of science. In a sweeping historical survey that begins with ancient Greek science and proceeds through the Renaissance and Enlightenment to contemporary advances in physics and cosmology Stenger makes a convincing case that not only is this conclusion false but Christianity actually held back the progress of science for one thousand years. It is significant he notes that the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century occurred only after the revolts against established ecclesiastic authorities in the Renaissance and Reformation opened up new avenues of thought. The author goes on to detail how religion and science are fundamentally incompatible in several areas the origin of the universe and its physical parameters the origin of complexity holism versus reductionism the nature of mind and consciousness and the source of morality In the end Stenger is most troubled by the negative influence that organized religion often exerts on politics and society He points out antiscientific attitudes embedded in popular religion that are being used to suppress scientific results on issues of global importance such as overpopulation and environmental degradation When religion fosters disrespect for science it threatens the generations of humanity that will follow ours
